ROYAL NAVY BOMBARDS AXIS TROOPS IN LIBYA

British Land Forces Successfully Attack Rear At Fort Capuzzo

Enemy Positions and Transport Columns West Of Salum Bombarded With "Particularly Good Results"

LONDON, April 16.—(CP)—The Royal Navy has gone into action against the Axis threat to Egypt, the Admiralty announced tonight, and Italian-German "operations on the Libyan coast are being constantly and successfully harassed by bombardment from His Majesty's ships."

"Enemy positions and transport columns on the Escarpment road west of Salum have been bombarded with particularly good results," the communique added.

"The ships have also shelled El Gazala airdrome to the west of Tobruk," it declared.

By HARRY FLORY

LONDON, April 16. — (BUP) — British Empire forces in North Africa have "successfully attacked" the rear of German-Italian positions near Fort Capuzzo, south of Tobruk, shelling and setting enemy vehicles afire, according to an official announcement made here today.

An important point in Libya, Fort Capuzzo is just across the border from Salum. Axis thrusts at Salum have been resisted by the British in heavy fighting against their armored units.

(Military informants said the situation in Libya was serious but there was no immediate threat to Egypt. Thousands of British Empire troops, fresh from victories in East Africa, streamed through blinding sand storms across Egypt's

ARMED FORCES TO GET FIRST CALL ON FUEL

Only Two Grades Of Motor Fuel Will Be Sold For Duration

By THOMAS WAYLING
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, April 16.—The fighting forces of Canada are to have first call on Canada's gasoline supply. Public services come next, then war industries, then general industries. The use of gasoline for pleasure purposes will be controlled.

Only two grades of motor fuel will be sold for the duration of the war, a high test for the present range of high compression motors and a low test for old cars, tractors and similar low compression engines.

The oil controller, G. R. Cottrelle, is making an investigation into the whole gasoline situation. There is no immediate intention of reducing sales, save that new outlets for the sale of gasoline will not be permitted.

SOURCES OF SUPPLY

The sources of supply are being carefully surveyed, particularly the imports from dollar countries. Preference will be given to imports from sterling countries, such as the West Indies, while the oil controller is continuing his policy of encouraging Canadian production.

In the proposed plan for conservation if, as and when it becomes necessary, the army, navy and air forces will have prior control. Then gasoline will be earmarked for government use, and so on down the line. One class of businessmen to be specially taken care of are the commercial travellers, to whom gasoline is essential.

No Turk-Nazi Pact

MOVIES WILL BE PRODUCED HERE DURING SUMMER

Alberta will be the production scene of several motion pictures this summer, with a United States picture company sponsoring the pictures. Scenic and other phases of Alberta will be featured.

Announcement of the picture company's plans was made Wednesday by John Grierson, Ottawa, commissioner to the Dominion national film board, of which the chairman is Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce. Mr. Grierson just arrived here from Hollywood.

Shortly after his arrival, Mr. Grierson conferred with D. E. C. Campbell, director of publicity to the provincial government, and Donald Cameron, director of the University of Alberta extension department, who is a recently-appointed member of the national film board.

Following his conference with Mr. Grierson, Mr. Campbell stated the film company probably would arrive in this province toward the end of June and would remain about three weeks. Pictures will be taken of various provincial activities, including agricultural and animal life, arts and crafts, religious customs and novelties.

The main production will be focussed on two-reel films, which will be generally distributed in the United States and shown in 6,000 to 7,000 theatres.

Winnipeg Flood Waters Subside

WINNIPEG, April 16.—(BUP)—Flood waters of the Red and Assiniboine rivers are gradually subsiding. Ice now is flowing freely down stream in the Assiniboine—easing threat of further floods.

Yesterday jams in this river forced an estimated dozen families to evacuate their homes. Today the river has dropped four inches from its Tuesday high mark of 16.9 above datum—or ice level.

PREMIER KING, U.S. PRESIDENT CONFER TODAY

Plans For Completion Of St. Lawrence Seaway Likely Topic

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, April 16—(BUP)—President Roosevelt confers with Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King late today in a discussion which may draw still tighter the United States-Canadian agreement for common defence of North America.

Prime Minister King will arrive at the Canadian legation in Washington about 4 p.m. and will visit the White House an hour later for tea.

The White House would not speculate on the nature of the conference. But it was recalled that two meetings between King and Roosevelt last year produced a renewal of the United States pledge to defend Canada, and a joint Canadian-United States agreement for defence of North America against aggression.

The two government leaders last met at Ogdensburg, N.Y., in a rail-

WORK STARTS ON AIR BASES NORTH OF CITY

Ottawa Confident All To Be Completed During Coming Summer

OTTAWA, April 16—(CP)—Coincident with the report from Washington that United States has embarked on air base and other defence projects in Alaska to cost more than $55,000,000, transport department officials here have been advised work on each of the seven airports connecting Edmonton with Whitehorse in the Yukon has been started.

"Men are on the ground at every site chosen for an airport across northern Canada from Edmonton to near the Alaska border," a department spokesman said today. "We are confident all the bases will be completed during the summer."

He said that with the completion of these seven bases, U.S. planes could cross the border at any point, connect with the trans-Canada air route and use its beams and other facilities to Edmonton where they could swing onto the Edmonton-Whitehorse route also provided with all modern facilities to take them into Alaska.

The Edmonton-Whitehorse route was decided upon following recommendations from the Canada-United States defence commission and the bases are being built by the transport department.

MEXICAN CITY IS DESTROYED IN EARTHQUAKE

Troops Removing Bodies From Ruins Of Colima, Hit By 'Quake

MEXICO CITY, April 16.—(AP)—Governor Pedro Torres Ortiz of Colima State telegraphed the government information office today that the city of Colima, which has a population of 15,000, was "almost totally destroyed" in yesterday's earthquake.

Federal troops have removed 36 bodies and nearly 100 of the injured from the ruins, the governor telegraphed. The full toll of dead and injured in the towns of the seven states in the southern earthquake belt may not be known for days.

COLIMA HARDEST HIT

Colima, capital of Colima state, 275 miles west of Mexico City, appeared to be hardest hit of the towns able to communicate with the capital. Governor Pedro Torres Ortiz radioed that half of the city's 15,000 residents were homeless, dead or injured.

Imperial Troops Speeding Through Desert Sandstorms To Meet German Invaders

By BRYDON TAVES

LONDON, April 16.—(BUP)—Thousands of British Empire troops, fresh from conquests in East Africa, streamed through blinding sandstorms across Egypt's western desert today to meet the German forces which had driven into Egypt from Libya.

Englishmen, Scotsmen, Welshmen, Australians, Indians, who had swept Italian armies before them in British and Italian Somaliland, Ethiopia and Eritrea were in the columns, all on a forced march to reach the British defence line quickly.

Reports from the front said the troops, eager to meet the Germans, were wearing goggles to protect their eyes from the swirling dust clouds and had muffled their faces in handkerchiefs and scarves. Some even wore gas masks, dispatches said.

They were marching on tracks which at many places were obscured by the storm.

The reinforcements had been released by the virtual collapse of Italian East Africa and had been sped to Egypt to join the Empire covering forces which the Germans

KIEL HEAVILY HIT BY BRITISH NIGHT ATTACK

By HOMER JENKS

LONDON, April 16—(BUP)—Many bombs dropped last night by British Royal Air Force planes on the important German naval base of Kiel caused extensive fires, the British air ministry said today.

The 36th raid of the war was made on Kiel by the R.A.F. "despite unfavorable weather," according to a communique. This communique added the following details:

"Considerable forces of aircraft attacked targets in northern Germany. The principal objective was the naval base at Kiel. Docks at Boulogne also were bombed. Two planes are missing."

TOKYO, April 16.—(BUP)—Fire swept through Shin-Minato-Machi in Tokyama prefecture today. Five hundred homes are in ruins and at lest 50 Japanese are suffering from burns and other injuries. The blaze lasted three hours.

Five Supply Ships Are Also Sunk As Convoy Annihilated

Warships and Freighters Carrying Supplies To Axis Forces In North Africa Destroyed

LONDON, April 16.—(CP)—British naval forces last night annihilated a southbound Axis convoy between Sicily and Tripoli, sinking three Italian destroyers and five supply ships, the Admiralty announced tonight.

The communique said an Italian convoy was "intercepted and annihilated" while southbound between Sicily and Tripoli—apparently taking supplies and reinforcements to Nazi-Fascist troops in North Africa.

The escort was made up of the Italian destroyer Luca Tarigo, 1,628 tons, and two smaller destroyers.

"All three were sunk," said the Admiralty in its typical sparing language.

Two of the supply ships were vessels of about 5,000 tons, "heavily laden with motor transport. These were sunk."

"Two ships were vessels of about 3,000 tons, probably transports. These were also blown up."

"Another was an ammunition ship of about 4,000 tons which blew up with a terrific explosion."

During the operation the Mohawk was hit by torpedoes and sank. The majority of her crew, including the commanding officer, Cmdr. W. M. Eaton, were rescued.

Nazis' Mechanized Thrusts Fail Reach Main Allied Lines

ATHENS, April 16.—(AP)—Fighting was general along the British front in Greece today, British sources said, but despite their vigorous mechanized thrusts the Germans had not reached the main British-Greek defences for the battle which may decide the fate of the Ionian peninsula.

Authoritative sources said the Nazis nowhere had overshot the main defence positions in their drive through the mountains which carried them to the western outlet of Siatista Pass opening between peaks 6,000 feet high to a corridor of easier terrain to the south.

Greek general headquarters said Greek troops in western Macedonia had been successfully withdrawn to the new defence positions.

Before the Greeks retired, headquarters said, they inflicted heavy losses on the mechanized German forces.

Strong reinforcements of men and material were reported in position in the new defence line, where the terrain makes mechanized attacks extremely hazardous.

The main German drive appeared to be directed down the central section of the peninsula from the Bitolj (Monastir) gap, while the column which crashed down the Vardar valley and took Salonika was in contact with the Allied forces to the east in the region of Mount Olympus. Here, the

The north African field of combat can be considered the central zone toward which hostilities in the two outer zones are gradually moving for a major challenge by the British army.

In the southern zone London reports negotiations may be starting for the capitulation of all that remains of the Italian army in Ethiopia. There is good reason to believe that if discussions have not already begun they must do so within a short time.

As the Yugoslav army, according to London reports, no longer is able to offer organized resistance, so the Italian forces in Ethiopia have been disintegrated into three sec-

NAZI BOMBERS HEAVILY RAID NORTH IRELAND

Indiscriminate Attack Causes Heavy Damage In Belfast

By NED RUSSELL

LONDON, April 16.—(BUP)—German planes rained bombs on Belfast and almost the whole of northern Ireland for hours during the night in a blitz attack, and bombed towns in northwest and northeast England heavily.

The northern Ireland ministry of public security asserted that the bombings in some areas were "vicious and indiscriminate" and it was indicated that both damage and casualties were heavy in Belfast, a city of 440,000 people and a great shipbuilding and linen centre.

HEAVIEST OF WAR

Belfast had been attacked in force on the night of April 7, but it was indicated this attack was the most serious which northern Ireland had suffered since the war began.

The Belfast communique said: "A heavy force of bombers carried out an attack lasting several hours over an area covering practically the whole of northern Ireland. The intensity of the attacks varied. In some it was vicious and indiscriminate. Damage was sustained by some industrial premises, many bombs fell on residential property. From preliminary reports it is feared that casualties may be heavy. Further details will be announced later.

Two churches, a movie theatre, a library, a hospital, a nurses' home and many commercial premises and homes were ruined. In one district where many homes were wrecked it was believed that loss of life would be serious. Fires were started at many places.

The German raiders crossed the Ulster coast and the first ones dropped scores of flares which lit up the moonless sky as they floated to

"The Truth About Italy" — By John T. Whitaker

Nazis Take Control To Stop Italians Making Separate Peace

The following is the first article of a series by John T. Whitaker, of the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service. Mr. Whitaker was run out of Italy by Mussolini and now from "somewhere in Europe" he tells Edmonton Bulletin readers the full uncensored truth about Italy. Be sure to follow these uncensored dispatches by one of North America's most brilliant foreign correspondents.—EDITOR.

Article 1

By JOHN T. WHITAKER

BEYOND THE ITALIAN FRONTIER—April 16—After 10 months of war, Italy's defeat is complete, and to prevent the negotiation of a separate peace with Great Britain the Germans have taken over control of the country. Italy's regime, her armed forces, her internal police and much of her industry and agriculture are already under direct Nazi tutelage, and Benito Mussolini today is scarcely more than the gauleiter of a conquered province.

WHITAKER

This is the dramatic denouement of 19 years of flamboyant Fascism. More than that, it is the tragic end of United Italy, which won its independence from Germanic domination only 80 years ago under the grandfather of the present king, who is sovereign now only by the grace of Adolf Hitler, which means in name alone.

How Mussolini took his country to war when it was utterly unprepared for that stern test, how this blunder disclosed the true nature of Fascism to the Italian people so that a whole nation lost its illusions and its will to fight, and finally how Hitler in eight swift weeks achieved a bloodless invasion of Italy, can now be told.

UNDER CENSORSHIP

Many an informed newspaperman in Rome knows that story but not one of the correspondents can tell it. They work there under a censorship that is intelligent and complete, fighting a daily battle in the war of nerves, sick that they must withhold so much of the truth but loyal to the editors and readers who want a man on the spot, however difficult it is to do his job.

Your correspondent can tell that story because he has been expelled from Italy and he writes free of censorship for the first time in a year. The authorities could cite no dispatch of mine from Italy as either inaccurate or tendentious. They asked me to leave because my general tone was unfriendly to the Axis, and curiously enough I had access to too many highly placed Italians. I have had four audiences with Mussolini and scores of conversations with his son-in-law, Count Ciano. I know Marshals Badoglio and Graziani.

STRANGE REASON

But this seems a strange reason to ask a correspondent to go away. It is my personal opinion that the expulsion was ordered by the Germans. I have no concrete evidence of that, however, and it is only a surmise.

One month before my expulsion the Germans were already pretty well in control of Rome, and more than one of them said in public places that they would have me arrested on some trumped-up charge of espionage if the Italian authorities would not expel me. It was obvious that the Germans wished to intimidate me into quitting Rome voluntarily, since the Italians, having had many proofs of my friendship for Italy, were reluctant to order my expulsion. The Germans rightly thought that I was no friend of Nazi Germany.

Uncensored articles on the defeat and occupation of Italy can be valuable to American readers if they achieve objectivity. In that spirit I hope to describe the extent and manner of German infiltration, why the Italians are incapable of revolution, how Fascism as a system destroyed the efficiency of the armed forces, why Mussolini, after a

U.S. MERCHANT VESSELS WILL BE PROTECTED

Armed Escorts Possible For Ships Sailing For Egypt

WASHINGTON, April 16—(AP)—In a terse but apparently historic remark, President Roosevelt indicated Tuesday United States merchant ships carrying war supplies through the newly-opened Red Sea route to Egypt would have armed protection.

He was asked at a press conference whether it was the policy of the government to protect United States ships wherever they go, so long as they stay out of the combat zones defined in the Neutrality Act. He replied that was the law.

NAVAL ESCORT POSSIBLE

He did not say to what law he referred, but other officials expressed belief he meant international law which, they said, provides for the freedom of the seas. Although the President refrained from going into details about the methods of protecting ships, naval men said several courses are possible.

They mentioned actual escorts by United States naval vessels, assignment of such vessels to patrol specific areas of the seas to see that no harm comes to American merchantmen, the use of airplanes and the arming of the merchantmen themselves.

The President had told reporters, however, that he knew of no discussion of arming merchantmen, except talk by orators.

The day also brought a new development related to the recent seizure of German, Italian and Danish vessels in American harbors. Chairman Walter George of the foreign relations committee introduced legislation authorizing the President, during the present emergency, to purchase, requisition, and take possession of foreign vessels lying idle in the ports of the United States.

Peace Or War In Pacific Depends On U.S. Claimed

SHANGHAI, April 16—(BUP)—The Central Daily News claims the Russo-Japanese agreement reached Sunday in Moscow means that Japan "is ready to cope with any emergency." The paper says the agreement also means that "henceforth, whether there shall be peace or war in the Pacific depends upon the attitude of the United States."

The newspaper is the organ of President Wang Ching-Wei of the Japan-sponsored "national government of China" in Nanking.

BATTLE RAGES ALONG ENTIRE GREECE FRONT

Greeks said, "several thrusts by enemy mechanized forces were repulsed."

The penetration through the Siatista pass was disclosed last night by a Greek spokesman. The advance was said to have cost the Germans many lives as they struggled through tortuous mountain routes harassed by sharpshooters.

The dent the Nazis drove in the point of the original V-shaped Hellenic defence line, together with Greek withdrawals on the Albanian flank, apparently has shifted the defence front into an almost straight line across the Greek peninsula from its eastern hinge, where British forces were still holding out at Mount Olympus.

(The Greek reports, with claims from Berlin and Rome, indicated the actual fighting line extends from just above Mount Olympus on the Gulf of Salonika westward past Servia and Siatista, jogs north toward the vicinity of Kastoria, then slants southwest passing just above Argirocastro, in Albania, to the Adriatic in the vicinity of Chimara.)

The Greek high command declared today that "ordered movements of our troops toward new positions" were carried out in western Macedonia (centre of the present fighting front) and that local Italian attacks in Albania were repulsed with heavy losses.

The German air force, meanwhile, ranged widely over Greece, heavily bombing communities directly in the line of the Nazi drives.

16 PLANES DOWNED

Athens had two air alarms this morning, but no enemy planes were sighted.

During aerial operations yesterday, 15 German planes and one Italian plane were reported shot down—five in the Piraeus region—against no Allied losses.

Thirty persons were reported killed and 50 injured in a severe bombing of Trikkala on the Athens railroad 55 miles south of Siatista.

German Pressure Said Increasing

LONDON, April 16—(CP)—Military circles said today German pressure in Greece is increasing.

They acknowledged there had been fierce attacks, but asserted there is "no truth whatever" in German reports that the British forces are leaving Greece.

Information reaching London indicated the situation in Yugoslavia frankly is bad, it was said, and the impression prevails that the Yugoslavs no longer have unified control over their armies.

It was believed here, however, that the Yugoslavs would continue to fight as guerillas.

Col. Conto Leon, acting military attache at the Greek legation in London, declared meanwhile that several "weak and doomed" Greek forts—cut off in eastern Macedonia after the Germans took Salonika—still were holding out, "although constantly harried and suffering heavy bombardment and dive-bombing attacks."

Muriel Dick as Tony's perturbed grandmother ingratiated her audience, playing with a broader and more alert sense of comedy than her first night performance revealed.

Directed by Eva Howard, the English farce will conclude its run tonight and a sell-out performance is anticipated. The curtain will rise at 8:15 sharp.

NEW YORK, April 16.—(AP)—Shipments between the United States and Egypt Tuesday were assessed 7½ per cent, instead of the former five per cent, of their value for war insurance, after action by Americ[illegible] Marine Insurance Underwriters [illegible] rate to the lower portion of the Red Sea, below Egypt, remained unchanged at five per cent.

Church Group Gives $1,000 To War Funds

CALGARY, April 16—(CP)—A cheque for $1,000 from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, in Salt Lake City, Utah, gave the Canadian War Services Fund a boost upwards today, in addition to giving officials a thrill at the sentiments expressed by the church president, Heber J. Grant.

The cheque from the Latter Day Saints came via J. H. Card, chairman of the Cardston committee where there is a large settlement of people of this belief. President Grant sent the cheque "with best wishes for the success of the cause for which Canada and Great Britain are making such heroic sacrifices."

The Cardston chairman assured headquarters that this donation would be over and above the district quota.

ITALIAN EDITOR IN CHICAGO IS SHOT TO DEATH

Recently Exposed "Fifth Column" Activities By Fascists

CHICAGO, April 16.—(AP)—John F. Arena, 43, editor of an Italian-language newspaper which recently published editorials accusing Italians in official circles here of "Fifth Column" activities, was shot to death on a North Side street last night.

Police Captain Patrick O'Connell had his men seize copies of recent issues of his paper, La Tribuna, and assigned translators to study its articles for possible clues to the killing. O'Connell said Arena had received numerous telephone threats because of his articles.

INFORMS ON FASCISTS

One editorial written in English, published Feb. 14 and reprinted Feb. 21, said in part: "We are glad to know that the great majority of American citizens of Italian blood are disgusted with the 'fifth column' activities of a vice consul at the Italian consulate and his friends. Many times we have exposed these unscrupulous people, because with their intrigue they harm both the American and the Italian people and the good understanding between these two peoples."

In Washington, the house committee on un-American activities announced that Arena had supplied the committee with information concerning Fascist activities in the United States only a few hours before he was killed.

Another editorial in the Feb. 26 issue of La Tribuna said warm approval of the previous article had come to Arena from Italian-Americans in Chicago and elsewhere, and added:

"Many American citizens of Italian blood, loyal to their adopted country, United States of America, tell us they can not speak openly against the activity of this 'Fifth Columnist' (naming an Italian vice consul) because they are afraid of persecution of themselves and their families."

DROPS ITALIAN TITLE

Arena, who also was known as the Marquis Giovanni Arena, a title he dropped when he became an American citizen six months ago, came to Chicago in the early 1930's, first engaging in the printing business.

When the late Marshal Italo Balbo flew to the Century of Progress exposition here in 1933 with a squadron of Italian planes, Arena printed the official program for the reception.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—(AP)—The house committee on un-American activities announced today that John Arena, Chicago newspaper editor, had supplied information to the committee on Fascist activities in the United States a few hours before he was shot to death last night.

The committee also made public a statement from Chairman Martin Dies (Dem.-Texas), demanding that the federal bureau of investigation protect committee witnesses and informers.

"Arena," said a committee representative, "spent two hours yesterday with our Chicago investigator giving all the names and details of the Italian Fascist movement in Chicago and also advised the investigator that he had previously furnished J. Edgar Hoover, federal bureau of investigation director, with information along the same line.

"We found a letter from Hoover thanking Arena for the information."

ATHLONE SEES CANADA, U.S. PEACEMAKERS

Will Lead Post-War Peace Effort Says Governor-General

VANCOUVER, April 16.—(CP)—The Earl of Athlone in an address to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, B.C. division, declared Tuesday night that when hostilities end the present war effort must be converted to a peace effort, and predicted that the United States and Canada "will become the arsenals for forging the implements of peace."

Freedom, he said, not only has to be fought for, but it must be treated as a guarded flame.

"We are paying now for our failure to recognize this before the war," he declared. "We must never again forget that when we have secured our freedom, then we must remain always on guard to keep it."

The Governor-General said that the time will surely come when the Empire again will be at peace, but the ravages of war will have to be made good.

"Not long ago, the President of the United States, in a memorable speech, referred to his country as an arsenal; he was then referring to forging the implements of war.

"I venture to suggest that when the war is over, the United States and Canada will become arsenals for forging the implements of peace. I doubt if there are any two countries in the world more suited to such an honorable and necessary role."

CASUALTIES UNKNOWN

Mexico City still lacked totals for casualties and damage in the various parts of the republic.

Colima volcano, near Colima, erupted, Governor Ortiz said, kindling forest fires that seriously menaced the shattered city.

Mexico City sustained damage estimated unofficially at more than $1,000,000 when heavy shocks wrecked buildings and started a fire in the industrial area that levelled a square block.

The tremblor, which began with violent shocks lasting five minutes in Colima, tapering off in a series of lesser tremors, apparently centered in the historic earthquake centre of Chilpancingo, about 50 miles inland from the Pacific resort town of Acopulco.

U.S. SHIP SHAKEN

Destruction and undetermined numbers of casualties were reported from Guadalajara, capital of Jalisco state and Mexico's second largest city; Manzanillo, important Pacific coast port; and a dozen other cities across the country, as far east as Maltrata in Vera Cruz state which borders on the Gulf of Mexico.

(The master of the United States steamship, West Munargo, reported by wireless that his ship, when off Manzanillo, had been shaken by the quake and that a tremendous cloud of dust was seen to mushroom from the land.)

First reports from Colima said numerous smaller towns around the city had been razed and that the forests in the area were "a roaring mass of flames." A radio message from an operator who identified himself as an amateur sending from Colima said at least 30 persons were dead.

The Colima power dam collapsed, leaving the city in darkness and hampering troops and volunteer rescue work.

The superintendent of the Colima division of the Southern Pacific Railroad said a gigantic landslide had blocked the tracks for a half mile to a depth of 36 feet in some places.

President Manuel Avila Camacho ordered a group of doctors and nurses to leave for Colima by automobile during the night. Three squadrons of military planes were loaded with medical supplies and food for a dawn take-off.

Britain Will Win

MONTREAL, April 16—(BUP)—Doctor F. Pavlasek, Czechoslovakian consul general in Canada, firmly believes that Great Britain will win the war with Germany. He points out that the allied position in the last war was bad for months, even years. He maintains it is developments in the future that really count.

Contestants Urged To Send In Game Of Check Answers At Once

Hurry with your Game of Check answers!

The Game of Check deadline for sending in the second set of cartoons, numbers 91 to 180 inclusive, is approaching.

The Contest Editor today issues a warning notice that answers should be in The Bulletin office by midnight Saturday or if mailed should be postmarked not later than Saturday, April 19.

So complete your answers quickly and either mail them or bring them to The Bulletin office.

Address them to Contest Editor, Game of Check, Edmonton Bulletin.

Be sure to include the identification form which will be reprinted in Thursday's paper. Without that, The Bulletin has no means of telling to whom your cartoons belong.

Clip the identification form and place it on top of your 90 cartoons.

No cartoons will be reprinted in the newspaper. If you have missed any cartoons, buy them at the offices of the newspaper for three cents for each panel of three, or write to The Bulletin, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope and three cents in coin for each panel of three you request.

They will be sent by return mail, but send for them quickly as you must send in your completed answers by Saturday.

The second stage of the Game of Check is nearing its close so act quickly if you want to win your share of the $2,500 in cash and merchandise prizes which The Edmonton Bulletin will award.

IMPROVEMENTS TO WESTGLEN SCHOOL URGED

Proposals for improvements to the grounds of Westglen high school this spring were discussed by the property committee of the Edmonton Public School Board, at a meeting in the board room Monday night, at the suggestion of Miss M. Bowman of the Westglen teaching staff.

Improvements suggested were red shale sidewalks, at the north and south entrances, trees in front of the school, a roadway for coal trucks, bicycle stalls, and tennis court on which Miss Bowman said the pupils would be willing to do the physical labor. These suggestions were referred to superintendent of schools, Ross Sheppard, who is to bring in a report.

A proposal to raise the Oliver school assembly hall stage was passed as was the proposal to erect a 40-foot steel flag pole at Westglen high school.

An investigation on the increased water consumption at Garneau school was submitted for further analysis.

J. W. Johnston, caretaker, will be retired at the end of the present school year having reached the retiring age, it was announced.

S. A. G. Barnes To Be Buried Saturday

Funeral services for S. A. G. Barnes, former M.L.A., member of the Edmonton public school board and prominent city insuranceman, who died Monday afternoon will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. from Metropolitan United church. Hainstock and Son, Ltd., funeral directors, are in charge of arrangements. Rev. R. McElroy Thompson will officiate. Place of interment will be announced later.

Dwelling Blaze

A blaze broke out in the home of E. Zima, 9538 106A avenue, at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday when a motor he was washing with gasoline in the basement became ignited. Mr. Zima had the flames extinguished before fire department equipment arrived.

INQUEST FOR FIRE VICTIMS OPENS THURSDAY

From 18 to 25 witnesses will be heard at the inquest probing deaths of Thomas Moore and Mrs. Frances Pollock, who died as a result of an early morning fire in the Cattistock block on April 8. The inquest opens at the city police station at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Coroner's Officer Det. William McDonald stated Wednesday that it seems unlikely the inquest will be finished at one sitting. All persons having any useful knowledge bearing on the deaths of the two victims are urged to attend and testify, Det. McDonald stated.

Seven members of the fire department, including Fire Chief James Macgregor, will testify.

Dr. John W. Macgregor, assistant pathologist at the University of Alberta, will present the findings of a post-mortem examination of the body of Mrs. Pollock, and also testify concerning cause of death in the case of Mr. Moore.

Several tenants of the Cattistock building will tell their stories concerning the blaze, it is stated.

C. G. Purvis, K.C., will conduct the examination of witnesses, and City Solicitor Thomas E. Garside, K.C., will also be present. Several of the key witnesses are also expected to be represented by counsel.

road car on a siding near the St. Lawrence river. For several hours they reviewed in detail problems entailed in defence of this continent, and finally announced a joint defence agreement.

It was believed that their talk today would take in the new plans for completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway project.

Mr. Roosevelt definitely cancelled plans to leave this week for Warm Springs, Ga., and considered an alternate plan to depart Friday for an extended week-end at Hyde Park, N.Y.

BALTIMORE, April 16.—(AP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, en route to Washington to confer with President Roosevelt, stopped here today and friends said he would have "a hasty physical check-up" at Johns Hopkins hospital.

Mr. King, arriving by special train, said, "I think your people are making a very great and effective effort" in defence production. "Many of us are surprised and pleased with the speed your industries are developing in producing essential goods."

"We're making an all-out effort in Canada, and we are hopeful. Things are going quite smoothly and the morale of the people is the highest in my memory."

Inquest Held On Death Of Soldier From Athabasca

LONDON, April 16—(CP)—A verdict of accidental death was returned at an inquest today at Beckenham, Kent, on Gunner Robert Batchelor Evans, 26, of the Canadian army, who died in hospital of a fractured skull after an automobile accident. An officer said Evans was from Athabasca, Alta.

5,000 Fascists Are Taken In Ethiopia

LONDON, April 16—(CP)—Five thousand Italian and 3,000 native African troops have been captured in Ethiopia since the fall of Addis Ababa, Reuters news agency reported today from the Ethiopian capital. An Italian general named Pesanti was listed among the prisoners.

earth. Succeeding waves dropped incendiary and explosive bombs over a wide area. Anti-aircraft guns and British night fighter planes were soon in action and bursts of machine gun fire could be heard from the British planes.

Lighter anti-aircraft guns were turned on the German parachute flares.

The night's raids cost the Germans six bombing planes in all, according to official count, and it was believed that others were "bagged."

Over Britain the raids were heavy and widespread but they did not assume the intensity of those on Northern Ireland.

The heaviest attacks were on Liverpool and the Merseyside and on the northeast coast.

London had a long alarm period. Guns blazed intermittently but it was apparent that the German planes which attracted the fire, and caused the alarm, were using London as a land mark on the way to attack other towns. Bombs crashed in one London district, however, and caused some casualties.

A big German bombing plane crashed into the street of a south-coast suburban area and two members of its crew, who parachuted, were taken prisoner.

After a three-day bivouac at the Chamberlain farm, on the Cooking Lake trail, about 450 officers and men of the Edmonton Fusiliers, CA(A), returned to their hutments at the Prince of Wales armory on Wednesday. Lt. Col. Harcus Strachan, V.C., M.C., officer commanding, was in charge.

Initial Success Of Axis Powers Will Not Win War Lord Halifax Emphasizes

By J. F. SANDERSON

NEW YORK, April 16.—(CP)—German and Italian successes in the Balkans and North Africa, although extensive and unwelcome, will never win the war for the Axis powers, Viscount Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, declared here Tuesday night.

The former British foreign secretary counselled the English-speaking union, at a dinner to look at large-scale maps and take long-range views when assessing the day-to-day developments in the war zones.

The result on the Balkan and North African campaigns has been to force Hitler "To send his legions into fields in which, whatever success he may win, he cannot achieve that success against Great Britain which alone can win the war."

He said nothing could be gained "by underrating the grave repercussions caused by the events of the last few days in the Balkans and North Africa."

"BLACK SPOTS" ONLY

"Let us look at them straight for what they are—black spots in the picture of the war and, having done that, take a general view of the whole situation."

The ambassador said men and munitions are being rushed to the Middle East to take the place of the army of the Nile transferred to the Balkans to help Greece and Yugoslavia, and there was no reason to suppose the position in Egypt would not be held.

Britain is gaining strength steadily, Lord Halifax emphasized, in the air, on the land and on the sea. Britain knew at the outbreak of war it would be at least two years before her full strength could be gathered together.

"Hitler is now faced," Lord Halifax declared, "by the spectacle, which is for him a spectre, of the growing productive strength of the United States and the British Commonwealth, reflected in the increasing military resources that are being steadily marshalled on land and sea and in the air."

MASTERY OF SEAS

He stressed the over-riding importance of Britain's mastery of the seas and the "heavy hand of sea power" that hangs over Hitler, despite his "considerable successes and with perhaps further successes still to come."

"The history of the struggle at sea since the war began," Lord Halifax declared, "gives every reason to believe that the strength of sea power is undiminished and in the end will play the largest part in bringing down the pillars of the Nazi temple."

Surveying the situation in the Balkans Lord Halifax said Hitler first tried cajolery and blackmail against the Greeks and Yugoslavs and finally struck, having made all his preparations while he pretended to negotiate. Yugoslavia was caught "before her mobilization was complete and before the staff conversations which, alas, her previous government had declined, could be made effective.

MEASURE OF SUCCESS

"The situation is still far from clear but it is evident that the German forces, moving in overwhelming strength at a moment chosen by themselves, have had, as they were bound to have, a large measure of initial success.

"Their armed columns have travelled with great speed along the valleys which divide Greece from Yugoslavia and are reported to have joined hands with the Italian forces in Albania, which have themselves been almost certainly reinforced by German troops.

"Salonika has fallen and the Germans are striking at the Anglo-Greek lines which guard the heart of Greece. Part of the Greek and Yugoslav armies have been cut off.

"Meanwhile, in order to support Greece and Yugoslavia, we had deliberately weakened our forces in North Africa. We were well aware of the risks involved, but we were determined not to leave these gallant allies unsupported.

"It has accordingly been necessary to withdraw in Libya to new positions and, though we have suffered loss in doing so, we have made the enemy pay dearly for his advance.

"While the present situation is not free from anxiety, there is no reason to suppose that it will not be held, and every stage in the forward movement of the enemy imposes new difficulties on his problem of maintenance and shortens the British supply lines.

BRITISH REINFORCEMENTS

"A stream of British reinforcements in men and material is steadily flowing into that theatre and this process is greatly helped by the recent action of the President in opening the Red Sea to shipping of the United States."

The broad picture that emerged from these events, Lord Halifax said, was one of Hitler compelled to strike into territory he hoped to undermine without fighting and a territory where he never could win the war, no matter what local successes he had.

In the air, Britain was stronger than even a few months ago and, with the help of the United States "is beginning to be able to give Hitler as good as and better than he gives us. We must not look for speedy results in the conquest of the night bomber. But the toll of machines destroyed by the aid of science slowly mounts and there is here certainly no reason for discouragement."

The British ambassador noted three recent enactments by President Roosevelt—the transfer of 10 coast guard cutters to Britain, the opening of the Red Sea to American merchant ships and the preliminary steps toward seizure of foreign ships in American ports. These he welcomed, adding "whether at any time it may be within your power to take further action to meet the situation as it develops, it is not for me to say."

LOVE OF FREEDOM

Lord Halifax said it was a love of freedom that prompted the nations of the British Commonwealth to start a "march of free men from the four quarters of the world." Its record in the war "shows more clearly than words that it is not content with lip service to the ideals which it proclaims. Without grudge or stint it is giving all it has to the common cause."

Each Dominion and India were pouring forth men, money and munitions of war to the common cause. Side by side was the vast productive power of the United States slowly getting into stride, combining to form an irresistible and united drive to preserve freedom in the world.

and Italians had driven before them 400 miles through Libya to the Egyptian frontier.

Cairo reports said the situation on the Libyan frontier had been stabilized. Some even said the German drive had been checked. But grave anxiety persisted in London and military experts said the situation was still difficult. They predicted that the British would make their stand on the old Mersa Matruh line, 120 miles inside Egypt. It was indicated the big fight might start at any time.

TACIT FRENCH AID?

It was reported that the Germans were still sending troops and supplies across the Straits of Sicily, and charges were repeated that the French were tacitly aiding the Germans by permitting their ships to use Tunisian territorial waters.

There were some suggestions that the Germans might try to drop parachute troops in the desert behind Mersa Matruh to try to cut communications, including the railroad over which the Empire forces receive their supplies.

Typical of newspaper comment was that of the London Chronicle: "The battle of Africa is one we simply cannot afford to lose. It is also one which the Nazi can hardly afford to lose either."

BRITISH FORCE ATTACKS REAR OF AXIS ARMY

cussing with British army chieftains terms for capitulation of 76,000 Italian troops still resisting in Ethiopia.

British military authorities here said that they had received reliable confirmation of reports that the emissaries had arrived at Diredawa, on the Addis-Ababa-Jibuti railroad, "on a very important mission."

An Italian surrender in East Africa had been expected in London because of the danger to tens of thousands of Italian civilians from vengeful Ethiopian tribesmen, who are revolting in increasing numbers.

It was recalled that after the British took Addis Ababa April 6, the Duke thanked the British for their treatment of Italian civilians in this message:

"His Royal Highness the Duke of Aosta wishes to express his appreciation of the initiative taken by Gen. Wavell and Gen. Cunningham regarding the protection of women and children in Addis Ababa, demonstrating that strong bonds of humanity and race still exist between the nations."

FORCES CONCENTRATE

"Italian forces now are gradually concentrating in three Abyssinian (Ethiopian) areas—Dessie, Gondar and Jimma," military quarters said today. "It is estimated roughly that in the Dessie district there are 10,000 Italian troops and 12,000 natives, while there are 8,000 Italians and 9,000 natives in the Gondar area. Troops in the Jimma region are estimated at 22,000 Italians and 15,000 natives."

Military quarters said the Italians had surrendered at Obbia, Italian Somaliland, 320 miles up the coast from Mogadiscia. A British patrol flying over Garda, 300 miles north of Obbia, saw white flags flying.

British patrols attacked and routed the Italians at Safartak Ford 30 miles southeast of Debra Markos, capital of Gojjam province. Forts on the left bank of the Blue Nile in the Debra Markos were taken by the British.

brilliant series of successes, is personally responsible for the tragedy, what happened in Libya, what happened in Greece, what happened in Ethiopia, the actual condition of the Italian people, why Fascism cannot work, and finally how the Germans meant to exploit their new province.

ATTITUDE TOWARDS U.S.

The most remarkable change that has come over Italy since the German entry is the country's attitude toward the United States. The Nazi propaganda machine is deliberately teaching the Italians to mistrust and hate Americans. The newspapers now describe America as 40 per cent Jewish, Roosevelt as an unscrupulous dictator with ambitions for world conquest, the American people as soulless protestant money-grabbers, too cowardly to fight but opposed to the Axis out of a feeling of inferiority in the face of the countries that have produced Dante and Goethe, Wagner and Verdi.

This propaganda is beginning to have an effect because the essential argument is the face-saving idea that the Italians would already be joying in peace and victory except for the Americans, who, though unwilling to fight themselves, help England in order to prolong the war and enrich themselves at the expense of an exhausted Europe.

The American consulates at Naples and Palermo were closed shortly after the Germans took control in Rome. That was significant, but Washington retaliated by closing two Italian consulates in America. More important than the expulsion of the consular officials was the fact that the Germans, with deliberate cynicism, persuaded the Italians that those officials were acting as spies.

The Italian man in the street now believes that American consular officers signaled to British warships and planes for bombardments at Genoa and elsewhere, though the officers of his government, having taken down on phonograph discs every word or sound heard in those two consulates, know that the charge is false.

BRUTAL LIE

This lie is all the more brutal since the absence of any proper American intelligence service is often remarked upon by grateful Axis officers. Its mere mention brings guffaws of laughter from Italians as well as German officials.

After the closing of the consulates a highly placed officer in the Italian war ministry said to me mockingly: "The American intelligence service must be the best in the world because neither we nor the Germans have ever been able to discover an American spy."

Early in the discussion of the lend-lease bill the Germans persuaded the Italians to undertake demonstrations against the United States. There was a mild and not very catching demonstration before the American consulate at Turin but the effort in Rome was called off.

I think they failed because the reaction of the Italian public in that period was so instantaneously opposed to such a demonstration that the German secret police thought better of the idea.

SAME REACTION

All Rome knew of the demonstration to be held before the American embassy five hours before the time fixed for the shouting. In that five hours I heard the same reaction from at least 15 Italians. "When we are being beaten by the Greeks are these madmen going to make us provoke America?"

By now I think that even that much common sense has been destroyed by the daily pricking of Goebbels' poisoned pens and the careful preparation of Himler's black books.

No Italian officer or diplomat can see an American in Rome today without written permission and private citizens are told that they risk having their names written in the gestapo black book. Most Americans, including your correspondent in his last month there, are followed by detectives wherever they go, and the servants of every American are questioned daily on all visitors and their conversations.

Persons entering the American embassy are stopped by detectives who ask for their papers and take down their names. All American telephones and the walls of the American embassy and consulates are tapped with listening devices. The American ambassador consequently can have no private conversation with any Italian, and indeed it is very doubtful whether he can consult with Washington without having his coded cables broken.

Italy, in short, is German, and its public must be prepared for Hitler's declaration of war, as Axis spokesmen sometimes say in Rome, if America begins to make aid to Britain decisive by convoying armaments directly to British ports.

The second article in this series will appear in The Bulletin on Friday, April 18. Watch for it.

Today's War Moves

tors, incapable of co-ordinated operations. In Yugoslavia guerilla fighting and combat by independent units still are possible, because the populace is not hostile to its own soldiers.

HOSTILE NATIVES

In Ethiopia, however, the remnants of the Italian divisions are not in a similar position. Besides having to fight the British, the Italians must face the hostility of the natives, who see the return of their lost independence in a final Italian defeat.

There must be serious uneasiness among the Italians of a massacre by the natives, or at least refusal of the tribesmen to assist the Italians in getting food. It is, therefore reasonable to believe that capitulation is the only realistic step for the Italians to take.

Once surrender comes the British will be able to release still more troops from conquered Italian East Africa, to join the number already on their way to the central zone of warfare in north Africa. Here, the squeeze toward the centre is the result of British victory in the south.

In the northern combat where the Anglo-Greek armies are facing the Germans and Italians, the situation seems similarly to be pointing to North Africa as the territory where the effective decision will be reached. It is possible that the Anglo-Greek battle line can continue to resist the Axis for a considerable period but there is no doubt that the high command at Athens must have taken into consideration the possibility of an eventual retirement to Egypt for renewal of the struggle there.

PROBLEM OF SUPPLY

Regarding the war from a long-range aspect, it is doubtful whether realistic strategy would sustain an anglo-Greek decision to continue fighting in Greece indefinitely. The problem of supply and reinforcement of man power will have to be faced sooner or later if the Germans continue to intensify their attacks.

As conditions now exist, the British are fighting on two fronts—in North Africa and in Greece. In addition, they are compelled to hold most of their troops at home, against the German invasion threat.

A two-front campaign has enough obstacles when the transport of troops from one front to another can be made overland, with the aid of railways and modern military mechanized transport facilities. It becomes much more serious when long stretches of water separate the fronts and great numbers of boats, protected by warships, must be utilized to carry material and men.

There would be no room for tactical criticism, therefore, if the front of lesser importance were eventually closed down and the front having the greater influence on the course of Mediterranean events were thereby strengthened. The British have a great victory to their credit in Italian East Africa, now finally lost by Mussolini. That may be said to balance, or perhaps overbalance, in its effect on Italy, a panzer push through Greece, resulting in a new British offensive in north Africa, with Greek units in reserve.

R.A.F. BLOWS UP 2 ENEMY SHIPS IN VALONA PORT

CAIRO, Egypt, April 16—(AP)—The Royal Air Force blew up a 6,000-ton merchant ship and a 7,000-ton ammunition vessel in a raid on Italian-held Valona harbor, Albania, on the night of April 14-15, the R.A.F. Middle East command announced today.

A communique also announced that the R.A.F. had cut a German line of communications in Yugoslavia by breaking up the main bridge over the Vardar river at Veles and had destroyed much transport on the Veles-Prilep road.

57 Night Bombers Bagged In 2 Weeks

LONDON, April 16—(CP)—British aid and ground defences in the first half of April destroyed 57 German night bmobers, far exceeding the best previous full-month total of 44 in March, the government announced today.

U.S. OFFERED FRENCH ARMY, NAVAL BASES

French Vice-Consul In San Francisco Makes Offer To F.D.R.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16—(AP)—The United States government was offered the use of all French naval and military bases in North and West Africa and Indo-China in a telegram French Vice-Consul Paul Bibily sent to President Roosevelt last night.

(In Washington, State Secretary Hull said he did not know Bibily and that nothing had been received at the state department.)

Bibily, who asserted he is the only legal representative of the French republic in this country, made the offer on what he regarded as similar ground to that which the Danish minister, Henrik De Kauffman, gave the United States access to naval and air bases in Greenland last week.

VICHY WITHOUT AUTHORITY

Contending the Vichy government headed by Marshal Petain is a self-appointed "puppet state," controlled by the Germans, Bibily argued that Vichy has no authority to speak or act for the French people or republic.

His telegram said:

"Considering that some one must speak right now for helpless continental France, and in view of the extreme gravity of the present hour and absolute necessity of keeping mastery of the Mediterranean, near east and far east. . . . Noting also the precedent established in the Greenland case, I offer to the United States absolute disposal of all north and west Africa and Indo-China bases. . . .

REFUSED TO QUIT POST

"I am certain that the French empire, Free French forces and chained French people at home . . . will enthusiastically welcome the answer any call made by the United States, notwithstanding the Petains, Weygands and Darlans."

Bibily says he is the only French diplomatic officer in the United States who has refused to give up the post to which he was appointed by the republic. He said Marshal Petain had asked his resignation but that he had declined to give it.

Japs Prepare

LONDON, April 16.—(CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation Tuesday night quoted Reuters reports from Shanghai that several thousand Japanese troops have been sent to the city "to counteract a Chinese move from the southeast."

Interpreting War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

RECURRENT and unverified reports that Yugoslavia has been seeking armistice terms added new shadows to a Balkan picture that was already dark enough for the Allies.

If it proves true, grave added danger must threaten the British and Greek troops. It would release additional Axis divisions and air power to batter southward into Greece.

Complete Yugoslavian collapse also well might shake Greek determination to continue the fight, and confront British forces in Greece with the desperate necessity of seeking escape by sea.

(Informed sources in London termed the report that Yugoslavia is asking for an armistice as "a typical bit of Goebbels' propaganda." These sources said latest information in London "gives no reason for any despondency about Yugoslavia.")

CENTRE FORCED BACK

Even without such rumors of impending Yugoslav capitulation, the British - Greek plight along a shrunken and backward moving defence line from the Aegean to the Adriatic was grave enough. Censorship still concealed the actual allied deployment on the secondary front selected. But it was clear the allied centre had been forced back 40 miles or more from its original middle hinge at Phlorina.

Berlin and Rome vied with each other in asserting Nazi and Fascist spearheads had driven down virtually parallel Greek valleys running southward from the vicinity of the Greek-Albanian-Yugoslavian border region to Kozane and Servia in the east and to the vicinity of Siatista on the west.

Athens announced Italian recapture of Koritza, important crossroads bastion of the Greek line westward across southern Albania to the Adriatic south of Valona. German-Italian forces were also threatening to outflank Klissura, Greek-held eastern terminus of the Klissura - Tepelini gorge, vital to the Greek hold on southern Albania.

LONDON OPTIMISTIC

Despite all these adverse reports, London reported increased optimism in British military circles as to the situation in Greece. On what it was based was difficult to discern, aside from the fact that Greek-British allies apparently have managed to cut down their fighting front perhaps 100 miles.

The indicated withdrawal from the abandoned Phlorina apex of the original Allied defence wedge to an approximately straight line from the Gulf of Salonika near Mt. Olympus to the Adriatic south of Valona would achieve that reduction of front. Even Berlin reports indicated it was accomplished without more than rear-guard skirmishes with advancing Axis columns.

It is obvious also that the new Allied front is still supported by steep mountain terrain and keyed to narrow passes that are definite obstacles to mechanized attack. London optimism seems geared to hope that these can be held to bar Nazi - Fascist debouchement into the great valleys of central Greece.

ION ANTONESCU CLAIMS MURDER PLOT UNCOVERED

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 16.—(AP)—Premier Ion Antonescu announced today the discovery of an alleged Iron Guard plot to murder him and members of his cabinet.

Antonescu, it was disclosed, told his cabinet yesterday that the murders were planned to take place during church services in the Easter holidays of the Orthodox church this coming week-end.

The premier said that Rumanian authorities were now rounding up the plotters.

Antonescu declined to disclose the names of the suspects until a court martial convenes, but he said they were members of the "death squad" of the outlawed Iron Guards.

The killing of a Bucharest bookseller a few days ago was officially described as a preliminary in the assassination plot.

After a court martial had imposed death sentences on a 21-year-old waiter and a 22-year-old clerk in that case, they were shot last night. Antonescu refused their plea for pardons.

London Italians Mourn Death Of Fellow Citizen

LONDON, April 16—(CP)—London's free Italians are mourning Fortunato Picchi, 47, an assistant banquetting manager at the Savoy hotel.

He was one of the parachute troops landed in Italy last Feb. 10 who was captured by the Italians and charged with sabotage in Calabria.

The Rome radio announced he was shot "at a place near Rome." His mother, living in England, heard the broadcast.

TURKEY WILL DEFEND HONOR PAPER STATES

ISTANBUL, April 16.—(AP)—The newspaper Yeni Sabah declared Tuesday that rumors Turkey is negotiating with Germany for a non-aggression pact are "a shadowy form of German propaganda."

It added: "This shows we are in a war of nerves and facing a very serious propaganda campaign. Almost always this kind of activity is followed by military attack.

"The fact that we retain a non-belligerent attitude must not be taken as a change in our policy. The other side chooses not to understand this and is trying to make it appear that Turkey will swing to the Axis.

"Turkey is never disloyal to her word. We know how to die for our honor."

The Turkish government, which is a non-belligerent ally of Britain, was reported to be engaged at Ankara in political talks of an undisclosed nature with Soviet Russia.

Freedom Shall Prevail..

RT. HON. W. L.
MACKENZIE KING

The Prime Minister of Canada voiced the spirit of all true Canadians when he declared: "The destiny of Canada will be determined, not by Hitler or Mussolini, nor by any combination of aggressors, but by the free will of the people of Canada in accordance with their tried and traditional loyalty. We will continue to face every ordeal with fearless eyes and unflinching courage." Aiding Canada in her fight for freedom are millions of life insurance dollars, the savings of thrifty policyholders. These funds are being used to equip the men and provide the materials so vital for the protection of our country—our homes—our loved ones. Meanwhile, life insurance guards a million Canadian families from the danger of want and privation in the future.

Food For Thought

Matsuoka has escaped from the importunities of Ribbentrop and the far from inspiring survey of Italy's position, and headed for home. Just in time to run into more bad news, in the shape of a despatch announcing that another conference is to be held at Manila. This one is to be attended by the appropriate United States officials in the Far East, by the British commander-in-chief there, by the foreign minister of the Netherlands and by the political and military chiefs in the Dutch East Indies.

Yosuke will not like that. He will like it even less than the two-way conference held in the Philippine capital a few days ago. It suggests a lining-up of forces, for which there could be only one reason, and which could have only one ultimate object. Whether he chooses to think in the Oriental fashion or in the western style, the come-to will be the same. Matsuoka will have no trouble in reaching the conclusion that the cause of the gathering is Japan's expansion policy in the southern Pacific, and the subject for discussion what courses these interested powers are to take in the event of certain contingencies.

That should provide the wanderer with sufficient food for thought to occupy his time while he journeys across the rather monotonous expanse of coveted Siberia.

He Feels Bad About It

The "foreign office" at Copenhagen cabled the Danish minister to Washington to come home, said the transfer of Greenland to United States protection was cancelled, and that King Christian knew nothing about the proposed agreement. The impersonal signature discloses the origin of the message. It was sent, of course, by the Hitler officials at the Danish capital; and they apparently could not find a Dane of appropriate rank in the service who would put his name to the cablegram.

The minister, naturally, will not pay any more attention to the summons than President Roosevelt will to the supposed cancellation. As for King Christian's foreknowledge of the transfer, the unauthenticated assertion of the unnamed Nazi official leaves the world wholly without information.

The one point made clear by the cablegram is that Berlin attaches proper importance to the loss of Greenland, and is correspondingly displeased. Which will not bother anybody's conscience at Washington—unless those of the Lindberghs who declared so emphatically that Berlin was not interested in obtaining bases from which it could launch bombing planes against the cities of this continent. The cablegram puts those gentlemen in the spot-light and alibis from them are strictly in order.

If the Fuehrer did not intend to use Greenland in his business his airplanes would not have been making reconnoitring flights there, and his gauletier at Copenhagen would not be forging cablegrams to protest the removal of the colony from his control.

Good Riddance

One bit of war work that should go with a swing in Edmonton and every other community is that of rummaging through the attic and the basement for "scraps" to be gathered up in the salvage campaign. The collectors will be looking for metals of almost every kind, rags, bones, bottles and broken glass, rubber. The one fly in the ointment, so to speak, is that they do not want tin cans. That is "bad," but seemingly there is no immediate need for these most plentiful and least wanted discards from the domestic establishment.

That the householders of the land will rally to the call for contributions of these waste materials can be assumed with confidence. They will surely do so with enthusiasm. Not only because the country needs the "trash," but because a good deal of it has been lying around in corners with no clear idea of why it was being kept. This is the opportunity to get rid of junk that has accumulated just because no one mustered up enough resolution to put it in the garbage can. It might some day be useful for something—therefore it was allowed to occupy space. Now it is a patriotic duty to rout it out of its hiding place and put it on the altar of the nation's war effort.

Many a household problem is thus solved, many a thrifty conscience cleared of doubt, many a nuisance ear-marked for final disposal. Gather up those broken gadgets, worn-out clothing, the bones Fido has lugged home, the old tires which litter the back yard, the fragments of dishes that have gone the way of all glass—and hand the lot to the salvage collector. What will become of them nobody knows, but somehow somewhere they will be used—and they will be out of the way and off the mind.

London Wants To Know

Perhaps London newspapermen are a bit jittery—they have gone through a good deal. Whether or no, they are saying things about the way the war is being run, and particularly about the way the war news is being toned down, which in Germany would land them in a concentration camp. Which again illustrates what it is we are fighting for. Such are the privileges people enjoy in a democracy—and do not enjoy anywhere else on this earth.

What these papers are saying a good many people have been thinking, in Canada as elsewhere. Our forces have been withdrawing in Libya and in Greece. That does not sound good. But perhaps the military men know what they are doing. They are the only persons who know all the facts, and the plans. Therefore the only ones who can gauge the future in the light of professional training, complete information, and understanding of basic strategy.

Laymen may think things are going wrong when the men who shape the war policies and draw the plans think they are going right. What these have done, at Dunkirk, in Libya, in East Africa, entitles them to confidence. When they say they are withdrawing to get better fighting ground or to lead the enemy farther from his base, their honesty is not to be questioned nor their judgment set aside by amateur observers.

But in the matter of with-holding war news, or tempering it to spare civilian nerves, the critics are right enough in saying this has been overdone. The British and Allied peoples are not weaklings whose morale would wilt if they were told the truth when it happens to be unpleasant. Quite the contrary; the way to stir their fighting spirit is to tell them frankly when, where and how serious a reverse has occurred. The authorities should be more generous with their supply of information from the fighting fronts—particularly when the information is of a kind to rouse the latent power of resistance among civilians.

Twenty permits for the erection of new dwellings in Edmonton, taken out during the last week-end, provide substantial evidence that the summer is to be a busy one in that line of urgently needed construction.

The net debt of the city was reduced last year by $432,079. The debt remaining amounts to $21,676,776. It is easy to get into debt, but hard to get out. At this rate of going it would take about 50 years to clear off the mortgage and bring in the happy time when taxpayers would have to put up only enough each year to keep the services going and make currently needed improvements. The moral is obvious.

Nearly every one who has lived in Edmonton for ten years or more knew Mr. S. A. G. Barnes, at least by sight, and to many thousands he was a personal acquaintance. His death closes a career remarkable for the length of time during which he served the people of the city in a representative capacity. For twenty-five years Mr. Barnes was a member of the public school board, and he was one of the city members of the provincial legislature during the 1935-1940 term.

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1891—50 Years Ago

The Free Press says seeding was general in Manitoba on March 31.

Thomas Houston sold 80 acres of land on the south side to J. C. Bremner, for $5 an acre.

S. B. Culbert, who was employed in The Bulletin office in 1887-8, has been in Toronto general hospital for some months taking the Koch treatment for consumption.

Sunday morning the blacksmith shop of John Hourston, near Norris and Carey's store, was seen by some Indians camped near there to be on fire. Building and tools were a total loss.

1901—40 Years Ago

General Butterfield, a U.S. civil war veteran, is dangerously ill.

Two spans of the highway bridge at Red Deer collapsed yesterday, the piers having been weakened by the movement of the ice.

Reported that an attempt was made to stab Kruger.

Over 350 soldiers deserted from a regiment at Leavenworth, Kansas.

The British government will strengthen the fortifications at Jamaica.

A rich strike of silver has been made at the Silver Mountains mine near Ft. William.

1911—30 Years Ago

Ottawa: Sir E. Taschereau, of the Supreme Court of Canada, is dead.

Ottawa: Opponents to the reciprocity arrangement are perfecting a Dominion-wide organization, which bespeaks a well-filled purse, and the prospects are that the pact will be fought with all the forces money can bring into the fray.

1921—20 Years Ago

The legislature adopted amendments to the school act providing for a board of conciliation to adjust differences between teachers and trustees.

Arrangements have been made by Trade Commissioner Stutchbury for the leasing of the necessary wharfages and trackage for the building of coal bunkers and a coal conveyer plant at Prince Rupert to handle Alberta coal.

The Imperial Oil Co. will start drilling in the Pouce Coupe country in about two months.

1931—10 Years Ago

Two men were killed on Tuesday by a blast in the Ellerslie coal mine.

Ottawa: Prime Minister Bennett stated he will not sponsor a bill for non-contributory unemployment insurance, as this would "put a premium on idleness" and "put people on the dole."

Madrid: King Alfonso, who abdicated yesterday, has left for exile in England. Thousands of political prisoners were released as the republican leaders took charge.

New York: Designer Fokker has produced a "flying fortress" carrying six machine guns in the wing, operated by automatic control.

From The News

By Harold L. Weir

War news from Greece and Africa is highly unsatisfactory in its vagueness. Despatches are confusing, representing a conflict of claims and little real, concrete information.

It seems to be certain that the British are rushing heavy reinforcements into Greece and it may have been the disembarkation of some of these new troops that was interpreted by the Germans as a general British evacuation.

It is certain the British are not evacuating but, on the contrary, are throwing additional forces into the battle. It is certain that the German blitzkrieg is halted, temporarily at least.

Beyond this, the news from the Near East establishes trends rather than facts. The general public is busily engaged in filling in the blanks according to its own fancy. And this, of course, gives rise to considerable uneasiness and many letters to the Times.

Out of this chaos, two generalities emerge clearly:

1. Our forces are not having any picnic of it and are handicapped by a lack of numerical strength.

2. The Germans are not sailing along with half the speed that most British people, in their heart of hearts, thought they would do.

Thus, the news is not good. But it is infinitely better than a week ago we thought it would be.

The opinion is frequently expressed that there is no use of the United States declaring war because she is doing just as much for Britain and her allies today as she would do if a state of war existed between herself and the Axis.

This, of course, is sheer popycock and one instance alone is enough to prove the fallacy of the notion. I refer to the question of convoys.

President Roosevelt, his entire administration, a majority in both houses of Congress and certainly the United States navy is tremendously anxious to convoy supply ships to Britain and Greece with American warships.

They know perfectly well that the intent of the lease-lend bill is not fulfilled with the mere delivery of munitions and supplies at American tidewater. For, after all, the fundamental purpose of this measure was not to drum up sales but to help the British win the war. Assuredly, the United States falls far short of the law passed by the Congress when these splendid guns and planes and tanks manufactured in American factories are permitted to go down to the bottom of the sea instead of operating against the Axis.

Failure, then, to implement the sale of these munitions to Britain by delivering these munitions safely into British hands is not only the poorest kind of economy but an insult to practical American intelligence.

The President and the Congress and the navy know these things. But they dare not rush ahead with a convoy plan because the public is aware that American convoys would probably be fired upon. And if American convoys were fired upon, the United States would have to declare war.

It is quite likely that between 70 and 90 per cent of the American people are prepared for this eventuality. But the highly articulate 30 to 10 per cent, led by those pro-Nazis who have already introduced bills in both houses purporting to forbid American convoys, are vociferous enough to endanger public morale.

If the United States were at war, even though she did not send a single man to Europe, her aid to Britain would be 100 per cent more efficient than it is today because free Americans would be 100 per cent behind the convoy plan. I say "free" Americans because the rest of them, traitors, obstructionists and bigotted isolationists, would probably be in jail.

Until the United States actually gets into the war, her defense of Democracy will be limited and impoverished by the little frenzied minority which, in a Democracy, is frequently able to lead the majority around by the nose through sheer lung power and nuisance value.

Majority rule produces Democracy. Democracy produces free speech. Free speech gives license to vicious minorities. Vicious minorities defy and pervert the rule of the majority.

Dr. Joseph Junosza, formerly of Warsaw, told an Edmonton audience the other day that the Polish people will be satisfied with nothing less than a post-war settlement that will stifle the "barbarian adoration of power" in Germany forever.

It will probably be several years, unless a miracle happens, before the world has to face post-war problems. But, even so, it is not too early to start thinking about them—particularly if thinking about them will avoid the monstrous idiocies of the war settlement in 1919 when the victorious nations and the vanquished nations dissolved their differences in sentimental tears and guilty Germany was sent away with a slap on the wrist.

We shall not have to exterminate the Germans to be realistic in our treatment of them. Nor is there any sense in severely punishing a people who can never be made to realize that they might have been in the wrong. Punishment is only effective when it brings a sense of guilt.

But we have seen that, individually, the Germans are decent folk as when they immigrate to America and get away from the goose-stepping nonsense of their Fatherland. The Germans are only dangerous when they are permitted to organize for mischief, as it is in their nature to do.

The chief problem, then, will be to destroy their national consciousness and make them regard themselves as intelligent individuals rather than units of a mythically "superior" race.

This can be done by disintegrating the German Empire and by driving such iron wedges of authority between its various units that it may never again raise the preposterous banner of racial superiority that has driven Germans mad for generation after generation.

Passion Music

Editor, Bulletin: I should like to convey to CFRN my appreciation of their broadcast last Tuesday of the Passion Music from Vaancouver.

It was a great pleasure to hear for once some real organ musical accompaniment free from the usual tremulant so often injudiciously used.

The organist evidently is an artist, and is deserving of thanks.

Cromwell and Ireland

Editor Bulletin: In the interests of the rising generation possibly you will spare space to answer the clever and quite reasonable comments of Mr. Regt. No. M 446093.

(1) A quotation from a history book in Alberta is unfortunate, for several years ago a commission was appointed to investigate as to whether one in use was anti-British in sentiment! It is advisable to consult several histories as such books are used for propaganda purposes on many occasions.

(2) If Mr. Regt. No. M 446093 feels that legalized authority is above the laws of right and wrong, and that Charles I was justified in setting up the Star Chamber to torture his subjects in, he should go and help Hitler torture the Poles, Jews, Czechs, etc. The word democracy comes from the Greek words demos, the people, and kratos, strength. This means the people elect a leader, if the leader is unsatisfactory he is fired. The word Dictator comes from word in Latin dicto, I order. This is opposed to British, and all Democratic, methods of Government.

(3) Cromwell lived in rough days, when Englishmen were men. Today they are gentlemen and so are somewhat handicapped in their dealings with German gangsters. Oh for another Cromwell who said his prayers, and smote the enemy hip and thigh!

(4) Ireland's troubles did not commence with Cromwell; they commenced in 1169 when the Pope Hadrian IV sold Ireland to Henry II. The country was "Protestant" then under the brutal persecution of the English the land became Roman Catholic and has remained so ever since. As a resident in that land for many years I know much about it. The Pope claims temporal power and so, logically, the Irish try to destroy "Protestant" England. I would do just what De Valera is doing if I were in his place.

I hope these few remarks may clear up a position which puzzles many.

Birds Scorn Bombers

By Wentworth Day in the London Listener

Only a few years ago people were saying that birds would be scared out of the air by aircraft and that half the migrants which come to us from abroad would probably change their habits. But the plain fact is that the average bird nowadays takes less than no notice of an aircraft. A few months ago I was on one of the busiest airdromes in the south of England. Bombers, fighters and reconnaissance planes were coming and going every minute. It is a highly secret sort of Piccadilly Circus of the air. Yet as we taxied across the grass in a whacking big Anson—one of the Coastal Command machines—its engines roaring like thunder, the seagulls barely bothered to get out of the way. They fluttered up from under the wheels so close that I thought they were going to be caught in the airscrews.

Pheasants were walking about on the edges of the airfield and last September partridges actually nested on it. In fact, just before the war started a pair of robins nested in Percy Hordern's plane at Denham. The nest and eggs went off to Brighton most days, and the mother waited at the airdrome until the machine came back.

Our pilots who are now flying in the Middle East will find, however, that the local eagles and kites in Greece, Egypt and Abyssinia are just as likely to attack a machine as they are to fly away from it. In fact, the Air Ministry issued a notice in 1934 which warned all aviators to fly above kites and eagles as they invariably dive when either angry or scared. They have a nasty habit of going to sleep swinging on an air current with their wings outstretched. You don't see them until you're right on them and then it may be too late. Lord Sempill was very nearly crashed twice on his great flight to Australia by kites which were having a quiet doze on the wing about 6,000 feet up over Egypt.

I remember when Prince George Bibesco bought his great tri-motor all steel Ford 12-seater airplane 10 years ago that I went for a fly in it with Sir Alan Cobham. It was about the biggest passenger airplane in the world. I said to Cobham, "Nothing short of a shell would fetch this thing out of the sky". Three weeks later it crashed near Allahabad in India, brought down by a couple of eagles. The first bird flew head on into the middle engine and the second one dived from about 10,000 feet and struck the wing like a stone, tearing a great hole right through it.

The Greek mountains are full of eagles which take a very poor view of aircraft. Colonel Minch, an Imperial Airways pilot, reported in 1926 that when he was flying a Bristol Bloodhound from London to Cairo, an enormous eagle came out from the Greek coast, flew close alongside the machine for a few moments and eyed him so grimly that Mr. Mayer, of the Bristol Aircraft Company, picked up a Verey-light signal pistol to defend himself. An Italian pilot in Abyssinia came off much worse. An eagle dived straight into the cockpit, smashed the windscreen and cut the pilot badly on the head.

But I think the best story of all is of the macaw—a sort of gaudy parrot with even worse manners than the ordinary parrot—who attacked a glider over Whipsnade and chased the pilot out of the sky. He was about 100 yards up when the macaw went for him with claws and beak. Captain Blake, the superintendent of Whipsnade, saw this little scrap and welcomed the macaw when it came back to the Zoo.

Red-Hot News

Manchester Guardian

Since Mussolini has proclaimed in public on so many occasions that Italian war news is the most reliable of the lot, it seems a pity to have to correct one of its latest achievements. But the Rome wireless was wrong in announcing last week that "the Queen Mother, Princess Elizabeth, and Princess Margaret Rose, accompanied by the Crown jewels", recently left for America on the same battleship as Lord and Lady Halifax.

Actually it was Mr. Churchill who departed, disguised as all three of them and carrying the Crown jewels in a cigar-box. His place has since been supplied in public by a stuffed effigy, with Mr. Duff Cooper (who has lately made great progress with the ventriloquial art) supplying the voice.

Mr. Anthony Eden, by the way, is in a concentration camp. It is Mr. Vic Oliver, who has gone to Ankara, where his make-up is said to have deceived even Sir John Dill.

U. S. Aircraft

San Francisco Argonaut

In this complex picture of the U.S. air industry, with its wonderous achievements and its crushing burden of responsibility, there is one relatively small region of greater significance, perhaps, than any other in the land. It is incredible southern California, that world unto itself where, it is said, anything can happen—and usually does.

Land of sunshine, orange groves, crashing surf, motion pictures, religious cults, and a continued array of bizarre activity that defies the imagination, it has become the capital of the nation's aircraft industry. In this huge outdoor arsenal, which includes both Los Angeles and San Diego, it is estimated that 50 per cent of the country's planes first take to the air.

There are many reasons why the Los Angeles area is growing more rapidly than any other in the United States, for it produces 100 million barrels of petroleum each year, it is the richest farming country in America, and it has climate, space and enthusiastic leadership. But there is no clearly established reason why it should have become the very heart of the aviation industry.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The Western Hemisphere Now

For the United States and the nations of the western hemisphere the war has taken an unforeseen and momentous turn for the worse. The unforeseen development is that the Nazis are able to send powerful forces into Africa. They have broken through the British fleet in the Mediterranean, landing armored divisions and the equipment of their air force in Africa, and this break-through is more ominous and will have more far-reaching consequences than their more spectacular successes in the Balkans.

For if the Nazis can exploit their new position in Africa, it will not only be Egypt and Suez that are threatened. There will be a much greater threat to the French empire in west Africa where it fronts the Atlantic ocean. If the Nazis are able to go to Casablanca and Dakar, the defense of South America will not be, as we have been inclined to regard it, a theoretical problem for the remote future if Hitler should win in Europe: the defense of South America will become an urgent problem of the present phase of this very war. The question of hemisphere defense, it is now certain, is going to be settled not at some conveniently distant time in the future but in the year 1941.

We must fix our attention on Africa. For what is happening in the Balkans was not unexpected by cool observers: all the alternatives open to the Allies were at least as bad, and perhaps worse, than the situation which they face today. The easy absorption of Yugoslavia would have meant the annihilation of Greece and at the very least the capitulation of Turkey. The disruption of the Balkans and the necessity imposed upon the Nazis of fighting for what they get is a stumbling block in their path; the position everywhere would be worse if they had not been resisted in the Balkans. But the fact that they have also gotten into Africa, if it means that they can now send an expanding army into Africa, is a very serious matter which was not adequately foreseen. For it is evident that if they have a base of operations in Africa, they can go west as well as east. They can move not only against Egypt and Suez but against, or through, the French empire under Marshal Weygand toward the Atlantic ocean.

From the French coast of Africa they would be much nearer to Brazil and the Argentine and Uruguay than we are. Nazi submarines, long range bombers, and surface raiders would be in a position to cut the North Atlantic from the South Atlantic; to raid, if not to dominate, the commercial routes from the United States and Britain to South America and to South Africa and around the Cape of Good Hope, and also to make it at once an exceedingly diffcult naval enterprise for the United States to get to South America to help in defending it against a Quisling revolution or even an invasion. If the Nazis get to the Atlantic coast of Africa, the problem for us will not be whether we can defend the Western Hemisphere, but how we shall undertake to recapture the means to defend it. It would be as hard for us to defend Brazil or Uruguay as it is for the British to defend Yugoslavia and Greece. For we also should then be defending a very difficult region at a great distance under extremely uncertain military and political conditions.

We shall not be able to defend South America as Col. Lindbergh has told us it could be defended: by 10,000 modern planes based upon South America. Even if we had the planes, they are not yet an organized force; even if we had the air force, we do not have a base in South America, we should have to hold it with troops and maintain it and supply it by ships that would have to run the gauntlet of submarines, bombers and surface raiders in the South Atlantic bottleneck. Only the Navy can defend South America, and the Navy can do it only if with the fleet we have, the Navy does not also have to defend the North Atlantic and the Pacific as well.

Therfore, the support of British sea power in the Atlantic is more than ever an absolute necessity for the defense of the Western Hemisphere. The decision to defend Greenland proves this conclusively. In spite of Col. Lindbergh's assurrances that Greenland is of no military value, the Nazis are operating their blockade right up to the coast of Greenland, and there is unmistakable evidence that they have already tried to establish themselves in Greenland. If they did, they would not only have new operating points for their blockade of Britain, but they could reach way down toward Newfoundland and the northern sea and air ways to Canada.

Yet, and this is the crucial point we must bear in mind, the only reason we are now able to undertake the "defense" of Greenland is that the British Isles stand unconquered with their navy between Greenland and Hitler's Europe. Were Britain to fall, Greenland would fall, too. For how could we get to Greenland past the Nazi submarines and bombers and air-borne troops operating, not from France or Norway, but from Scotland and Ireland?

As a matter of fact, every base we establish in Greenland, just as every base in the British Isles, just as every base in the French empire, just as every base we may establish in Brazil or the South Atlantic, will, if Britain and the United States lose command of the Atlantic, be turned against us and the whole Western Hemisphere. If we are unable to hold the outposts, of which by all odds the greatest is the British Isles, the positions we have failed to defend will become the bases for the attack.

This is a grim prospect, but we shall be derelict in our duty if we allow ourselves the luxury of not facing it squarely. Our hope, and it is a good one, lies in the fact that we are warned while there is still time to take effective measures. Our danger is that we shall hesitate to take effective measures while there is still time to make them effective.

The fact, which we shall have to face, is that the actual defence of the Western Hemisphere is at stake in this immediate phase of the war, and that the question presented to us is not how to defend the hemisphere in the post-war world, but how in the next few months to hold on to the means of defending the Western Hemisphere.

The Gospel According To St. Mark Chapter 11 (Cont'd)

For verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith.

Therefore I say unto you, What things soever ye desire when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them.

And when ye stand praying, forgive, if ye have ought against any; that your Father also which is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses.

But if ye do not forgive, neither will your Father which is in heaven forgive your trespasses.

And they come again to Jerusalem: and as he was walking in the temple, there come to him the chief priests, and the scribes, and the elders,

And say unto him, By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority to do these things?

And Jesus answered and said unto them, I will also ask of you one question, and answer me, and I will tell you by what authority I do these things.

The baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men? Answer me.

And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say, Why then did ye not believe him?

But if we shall say, Of men; they feared the people: for all men counted John, that he was a prophet indeed.

And they answered and said unto Jesus, We cannot tell. And Jesus answering, saith unto them, Neither do I tell you by what authority I do these things.

Flight Of A Colony

By Robert J. Casey, Correspondent of the Chicago Daily News with the British Middle East Command

Out of the promised land today fled Il Duce's colonists, leading his shocked, broken army on the road to Asmara and nowhere.

Old men, women and children, these were plodding afoot through the quivering heat, choking with dust stirred by cannon wheels on the smashed road or stirred from the hillsides by frightened pack animals and more frightened men.

Behind them the British artillery crashed in the not so distant peaks and machine guns stuttered in brief argument at the futile road blocks. Ahead, beyond the veils of dust, beyond Asmara, lay the hopeless, useless march to the dead end of Massawa and the sea, or the aimless trek toward the south and into the hands of the vengeful natives.

They are not newcomers to East Africa, these terrified refugees. Many of them had grown old here nurturing the rocky soil with endless patience—seeding mountain crevices, burning and starving their youth on the promise of better days for their old age. And all this to establish the glory of Italy in Eritrea—to make this colony the cornerstone of the vast and reluctant empire of Ethiopia.

From the Sudan to Cheren the country was wild, menacing, uncultivated and untamable. But as the attacking troops drove through the glaring, white town and past artillery positions beyond, they found a gorge, widening slopes more lenient and heights stretching to the skyline in a series of terraces and broken plateaus.

Here are green farms with orderly outbuildings and small but habitable cottages. The steaming greenery of the brush lands is broken by orchards where lemons and oranges and papayas are ripening.

But the doors of the houses swing in the wind and no one moves in the grape arbors or in the lanes between the orange trees. There is no sound to compete with the rattle of trucks and armament along the valley highway.

Unreasoning panic came with the first wave of the sweat-covered, dirt-caked Alpineri scrambling down from the peaks they had defended for two months at ghastly cost, throwing away their rifles and machine guns, the better to carry their numerous wounded. The settlers pushed back their chairs and joined in the flight.

So began the trek that in a little way was like that from Belgium and northern France last year. But there were two differences—there was no harrying of civilians on the road, and these uprooted pioneers marched without the solace that remained until the last minute with the peasants in Belgium.

Belgian and French refugees hoped one day to go back to their lands—knew they would until the day German bombs slaughtered them. These Italians, who see Ethiopia reclaiming its own, have no hope of returning. Without possessions, without prospects, they plod on to the sea.

Birthday Of Old-Timer Is Big Occasion

To honor Mrs. A. G. Barnes on her 81st birthday, her daughter, Mrs. Clinton Hill, entertained at a dinner party this week. Mrs. Barnes is an old-timer of the district, coming in with her husband and family 30 years ago, before the railroad.

She was born in Le Havre, France and as a child of ten, fled with her mother to England when they had to leave their Paris home when the city fell in the Franco-German war in 1870. She remembers the bad times of the war, scarcity of food and every necessity. The family stayed in England for some months, then returned to Paris where Mrs. Barnes lived until she came to Canada in 1884.

She married A. G. Barnes in Barrie, Ont. Her husband died in 1917. Three daughters live at Rocky and three sons. One son was killed in France in the last war and one daughter lives in Barrie, Ont. Mrs. Barnes is very active, sews for the Red Cross, listens to all the news and attends church regularly.

Mr. McLean was one of the Legion committee who raised the money to build a $10,000 hall in 1930. He has been a member of the town council and school board for six years, treasurer of the Red Cross since its organization and member of the executive of the hospital committee of the Board of Trade.

Mrs. McLean has been president of the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church and of the Missionary Society, secretary of the Women's Institute and a member of the Red Cross and I.O.D.E.

A number of parties have been arranged in their honor, and the four McLean children were guests of honor at a school party Friday evening.

Borrowing, Taxation To Finance War

By GRANT DEXTER
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, April 16—Canada will need $3,000 millions in round numbers to finance the war and essential national government services in the year which began on April 1.

Where is the government to find this huge sum of money? A substantial part of it will be borrowed but an equally large sum will be taken in taxation.

At this point the question arises—where is the income which the government must tax, if our war budget is to be soundly financed? The final answer, naturally, will be revealed in the budget, but recently published facts on national and private income indicate pretty clearly what this answer must be.

Last February 4, Bruce Hutchison in an article demonstrated the folly of thinking that this war can be financed by the wealthier classes. The slogan, "soak the rich," affords no answer.

RICH BEING SOAKED

To begin with, the rich are being soaked and undoubtedly will be soaked some more in the forthcoming budget. The latest detailed figures on income tax are for 1937 but the general averages will remain true today. In 1937 our national income was $3,824 millions and the total incomes of all income tax payers amounted to $880 millions or 23 per cent. In the present year, with an estimated national income of $5,950 millions the budget at $3,000 million will require 50 per cent of it. Therefore, if the government took every dollar earned in excess of say $2,000 per year, the total revenue so received would not meet half of Ottawa's expenses this year. To do this, of course, is impossible but these facts illustrate the point.

The great bulk of the earnings covered by Income Tax is in the lower brackets. All the incomes of the so-called wealthy people, with incomes of $20,000 and more, would not pay the government's bills for one month.

The mass of income of Canada, out of which the war must be financed, is to be found in the pockets of millions of little men—the wage earning group. The men and women with incomes of $2,000 and more will pay plenty but in 1937 they numbered only 264,804 out of 4,200,000 gainfully employed in this country.

BEAR GREAT BURDEN

In terms of individuals, therefore, there is no doubt as to who has the income which the government must tax—the masses of the people must bear the greater part of the burden. Proportionally, of course, they will not be hit as hard as the higher income groups, but collectively they earn most of the income of this country and will have to pay a greater part of it to the government, whether they do so by direct taxation or by inflation and the higher prices which would result.

Another excellent guide to coming taxation is available in two volumes on National Income; The first is an appendix to the Sirois report; the second was issued in February and brings the Sirois commission tabulations up to date. In 1940 the national income was $4,594.2 millions. Of this $2,875.1 millions was salaries and wages; $512 investment income; $388.8 the income of individual businesses; $508.8 the income of agriculture. The balance went for military pay, allowances, etc. If you look closely at the investment income, the coupon clipping class, you will find that only $236,414,000 is bond interest and dividends. Life insurance income, for example, is $69,590,000. The point about these figures, however, is that salaries and wages amount to more than half of our total income. And, turning again to the income tax statistics, it is clear that the great bulk of salaries and wages are earned by people with incomes of less than $2,000 per year.

INCREASED INCOME

In assessing the present position of the major groups that share the national income, it is plain that the war has increased the income of the salary and wages group much more rapidly than the income of the other groups.

Thus salaries and wages advanced $358 millions in 1940 over 1939; investment income $26 millions; individual enterprises $14 millions; military pay and allowances $156 millions.

The income of agriculture gained only $3 millions. Of all classes, agriculture gained least and it is true to say of the farmers, as a unit, that not only are they not profiting out of the war but quite evidently they would be cruelly hurt by inflation. That would apply particularly to wheat farmers.

Again, the figures show that if the nation's needs are to be met from the incomes which have risen most because of the war, the burden must fall chiefly upon salaries and wages. And if it isn't necessary to repeat that the salaries within the range of the income tax have already been heavily taxed and could not possibly provide any substantial part of the additional sums required.

ONE OTHER SOURCE

There is one other source whence large additional revenues might be obtained—companies. Here, however, the increases in the corporation income tax plus the excess profits tax have prevented any increase in net income due to the war. In recent weeks scores of annual statements of companies have been published. They all have one feature in common. Their gross earnings, as a rule, were greater in 1940 than in 1939 but when war taxes were deducted their net income, available for dividends was lower than in 1939.

Many complaints are being made at Ottawa by companies which were hard pressed during the pre-war years. Now they are working to capacity. Large sums of money are being earned but all of it is passing on, under the excess profits and other taxes, to the national treasury. They are unable to profit by the war and, regardless of their moans, no change in these taxes is contemplated.

All sign posts, therefore, point to the little man as the chief bearer of new taxation in the coming budget. Not that the other classes are escaping, but the rich are already being soaked. Corporations are being soaked. The farmers as a class are not better off than before. Coupon clippers are harvesting no war gains. The one class which, the statistics prove, has gained largely by the increase in the national income is the salary man and wage class and while the salary man no doubt will be asked to contribute more than in the past, the weight of the additional burden of the war seems certain to fall upon the wage earner.

That, at least, is the way the statistics add up.

OTTAWA RUMOR SAYS CABINET CHANGES NEAR

OTTAWA, April 16—(CP)—With parliament adjourned for the Easter recess and spring's first war days at hand, talk on Parliament Hill has turned to the possibilities of cabinet changes. The name of Transport Minister Cardin is receiving the most mention.

Mention of reports that ill-health may lead to his resignation was made in the Ottawa Journal Tuesday. This was coupled with the possibility that when it becomes necessary for Prime Minister Mackenzie King to deal with one change in his ministry there will be one or two others "in a long-anticipated cabinet reorganization."

Named in conjecture as a possible successor to the transport minister should he retire from the cabinet is Col. Thomas Vien, (Lib. Outremont) deputy-speaker of the commons. He is a veteran of parliament, frequently mentioned as a cabinet possibility in speculation of the past, and a former deputy chief commissioner of the old board of railway commissioners.

Fisheries Minister Michaud has for some time been the subject of retirement rumors coupled with suggestions he would receive an appointment to the judiciary in New Brunswick. Burton Hill (Lib. Charlotte) has been mentioned as a possible successor.

Looking them Over

by JACK KELLY

YESTERDAY Johnny Gaudes arrived here from Milwaukee and after the Resin Row gang saw him flash through a gym drill last night they were unanimous in the opinion that Jimmy Chapman has gone and got himself a stick of dynamite to battle with this time.

Gaudes, who broke his trip here from Milwaukee with stops at Minneapolis and Winnipeg for workouts, gives every indication of being right in the pink. Stocky, exceptionally powerful for a bantam and moving as fast as a scalded cat, Johnny gave the impression that he is the sort of guy any bantam would prefer not to fight.

This afternoon Gaudes will work again at the gym in the Edmonton Paint and Glass Building. He is slated to spar with Jimmy Rimmer, but the latter had to report back to his army unit in Calgary yesterday and may not be able to arrange leave in time to return here for the workout.

Gaudes, who was born at St. Boniface, Manitoba, but has recently been living with his family in Milwaukee, has 100 pro fights to his credit and has won 75 of them. Fifteen of these victories have been by knockouts. He won the dominion bantam title in November, 1938, by outpointing Baby Yack in Toronto over 10 rounds. Previous to this he had taken two decisions over Yack in non-title engagements. He defeated George Pace, world bantam champ on points in Toronto but later lost a return bout to him in Milwaukee.

Lefty Gwynne lifted the dominion title from Gaudes but finally faded out of the picture and the championship was left vacant for some time. It has recently been declared filled by the eastern Canadian Boxing Federation who paid no attention to Chapman's rating as western Canada bantam king in making their title match. The Western Canada Boxing Federation accordingly felt it had as good a right to declare the winner of Chapman vs. Gaudes dominion champ as the east had in making its selection.

Chapman is now in a position where he can hit the big time in two fights—if he wins them. Last night at Vancouver, Kenny Lindsay of that city, defeated Tony Olivera, recognized as the world bantam champion by the States of New York and California. If Chapman can beat Gaudes, he becomes the next logical battler for Lindsay to meet.

It is no secret here that in the past Chapman has not considered training rules with as much reverence as he might. However he has been winning his rights lately and his manager, Dave Cavadas, is convinced that his fiery battler has settled down to serious business. Jimmy will get a chance to prove that when he climbs into the ring with Gaudes in the Empire theatre on Friday night, April 18. He will be up against the toughest and smartest opponent he has yet encountered.

The affair promises to be one of the choicest bits of ring warfare offered in Edmonton for a long time.

Western Champs In Three Games

WHEN Coach Bill Douglas' Comets scored their second straight victory over the Vancouver I.X.L. team last night, they set a record for winning the western senior ladies' basketball championship in a hurry. It took them just three games to annex the crown—a sudden-death win over the Calgary Witchens and the two triumphs over Vancouver.

The title trail will apparently end here for the Comets. Winnipeg was to have been the scene of the western final with the girls from that city being one of the finalists, but they couldn't carry through arrangements at the last minute and accordingly defaulted.

It is the turn of the eastern Canada champions to foot the bill for the west going east this season for the dominion final, but the gals down there can't find the money so there will apparently be no east-west final.

Actually the Comets might claim the dominion title by default—and have a much better claim to the honors than Ottawa did when they proclaimed themselves dominion football champions last fall, but such championships don't mean a thing and the Edmonton girls don't seem to care a hoot about trying to establish such a hollow claim.

Attendance last night was pitiful—far worse than on Monday night and it looks like the end of tentative plans to bring one or two outstanding U.S. teams here this summer to compete for the Sykes Memorial trophy, the new emblem of international challenge supremacy. Even allowing for the bad weather and bad war news, the crowd was so small that no one could find a single optimistic angle to the situation.

Kenny Lindsay Punches Out 10 Round Win Over Olivera

VANCOUVER, April 16—(CP)—Kenny Lindsay of Vancouver flailed out a 10-round decision over Tony Olivera of Oakland, Calif., here Tuesday night to win the Californian's two-state recognized world bantamweight title. New York State and California recognizes Olivera's title.

The Vancouver fighter, using a fast right-cross with telling effect, emerged from the last two rounds of toe-to-toe slugging with the crown after the two had split the first eight rounds evenly.

Lindsay weighed 117 pounds and Olivera 117¾.

The Californian lost two rounds because of low blows.

Olivera, using a left jab as his most effective punch, took the first two rounds but Lindsay won the next three.

During the sixth, which went to Olivera, Lindsay concentrated his attack on Olivera's midsection. He switched to the face in the seventh, however, and regained his one-round advantage.

Olivera came back strong to take the eighth but was unable to keep away from Lindsay's dangerous right during the last two rounds.

Danny Jahl, heavyweight battler from Richdale, Alta., knocked out Alvin Failes, Seattle negro, in the second round of a scheduled six-round special event.

Failes came out at the start with evident intentions of finishing the fight in a hurry but the Alberta boy made him miss badly during the first round.

Pahl was still on the defensive in the second round but stopped the big Seattle fighter with an overhand right to the face at two minutes and 10 seconds of the round.

Pahl weighed 191 and Failes 202.

Principals Sign For Title Bout

Jimmy Chapman and Johnny Gaudes completed their contracts yesterday for their 10-round battle here in the Empire theatre Friday night. They are shown above putting their names on the dotted lines under the supervision of officials. Chapman is seated on the left. Frank Heller, secretary of the Western Canada Boxing Federation, is seated in the centre, while Gaudes is seated on the right. Standing behind Chapman on the left is his manager, Dave Cavadas of Vancouver. Centre, standing, is Harry Croxton, well-known Edmonton sportsman who is staging the fight on behalf of Prairie Sports Limited. Standing on the right is Ernie Farr, Calgary promoter, who is acting as Gaudes' manager for the fight.

Cards Belt Out 7-3 Victory Over Reds: Feller Wild, Indians Lose To White Sox

CINCINNATI, April 16.—(AP)—St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday confirmed advance suspicions that they are the challengers of the National Baseball League by out-homering the world champion Cincinnati Reds 7-3 before 34,940 fans.

Paul Derringer, co-ace of the Cincinnati pitching staff, couldn't survive four-base blows by Ernie Koy and Enos Slaughter, and fireman Joe Beggs laid the ball in the slot for powerhouse Johnny Mize in the ninth.

Frank McCormick, the league's most valuable player, contributed a pair of homers and a single, but three double-plays cut the Reds down almost every other time they threatened.

GIANTS BEAT DODGERS

BROOKLYN, April 16—(AP)—New York Giants broke up Brooklyn Dodgers' National League opening-day party with a four-run outburst against Whitlow Wyatt in the eighth inning and emerged 6-4 victors before 31,604 fans.

Hal Schumacher started on the mound for the Giants and gave up all the Brooklyn runs on four hits and eight walks in 3 2-3 innings.

He was followed by Cliff Melton, Paul Dean and rookie ace Adams, who finally got credit for the victory.

PHILLIES WIN 6-5

PHILADELPHIA, April 16—(AP)—The Phillies, showing a new found punch, won their opening game of the National Baseball League season Tuesday, beating Boston Bees 6-5 on Cy Blanton's four-hit pitching before 10,595 at Shibe Park.

Blanton, a castoff of Pittsburgh Pirates, pitched no-hit ball for 6 2-3 innings before Carvel Rowell beat out a bunt. Max West then followed with a homer. In the ninth Eddie Miller hit a four-bagger with two on for the Bees' other three runs.

Homers by Joe Marty and Nick Etten gave the Phils two runs in the third. In the fifth a walk, an error, Stan Benjamin's triple and Etten's single accounted for three more tallies and drove Dick Errickson to cover. The Phils' winning run came in the seventh on singles by Marty, Etten and Danny Litwhiler.

CUBS WIN OPENER

CHICAGO, April 16.—(AP)—Manager Jimmy Wilson's Chicago Cubs, rejuvenated with a scattering of rookies, opened the National League season Tuesday with a 7-4 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates before 17,008 fans.

The Cubs made four errors—all by rookie shortstop Lou Stringer. Bill Nicholson homered for the Cubs and Arky Vaughan hit two triples for Pirates.

ATTENDANCE UP OVER TOTAL FOR OPENER IN 1940

NEW YORK, April 16.—(AP)—Baseball's major leagues got down to business Tuesday with an assortment of surprises for 195,339 fans who turned out for the seven games that escaped the weatherman.

The debut of Detroit's American League champions at St. Louis was rained out, but even so the day's attendance exceeded last year's total of 183,357 for a full program of eight games. The record opening day was 240,010 in 1931.

Chief among the unexpected developments was Chicago White Sox trimming Cleveland Indians 4-3 with a great show of disrespect for Bob Feller, who uncorked a no-hit, no-run game against them on opening day last year. The Cleveland game drew the day's biggest crowd, 46,046, and set a record for opening day in Cleveland.

The next best turnout was 40,128 at Yankee Stadium in New York where Lovill "Chubby" Dean exercised his jinx over the Bombers and beat them for Philadelphia Athletics 3-1 on five-hit pitching.

Continuing the string of upsets, Cincinnati Reds were humbled 7-3 by St. Louis Cardinals before 34,940 Crosley Field fans, largest turnout of the day in the National League. Ernie Koy, Enos Slaughter and John Mize made home runs for the Cards, driving Paul Derringer off the mound in the eighth and overshadowing two round-trippers hit by Frank McCormick.

The lowly New York Giants bludgeoned Brooklyn Dodgers 6-4 with a four-run eighth-inning uprising against Whit Wyatt before 31,604 amazed Flatbuh fans. The tail-end Phillies edged out Boston Bees 6-5 on the four-hit hurling of Cy Blanton.

The three games in the American League drew a total turnout of 101,192 fans while the four in the National League attracted 94,147.

REGRETS FROM 1897

BOZEAT, Eng.—(CP)—R. Bayne of this Northants village donated his old age pension to the Ministry of Aircraft Production saying he refused Winston Churchill a drink of water on the North-West frontier of India in 1897.

CLEVELAND, April 16.—(AP)—Bob Feller failed Cleveland's Indians in their American League opener Tuesday before a record Cleveland opening-day crowd of 46,064. He walked seven, hit two more and gave five hits in the first six innings to give Chicago a 4-3 win.

While Feller walked across what proved to be the winning run, the veteran Bill Dietrich hurled steady seven-hit ball.

Feller's own wildness contributed to the first two tallies. He hit Bill Knickerbocker and walked Joe Kuhel to put two runners on base. The Sox promptly tallied twice on singles by Julius Solters, Dario Lodigiani and Larry Rosenthal.

The Indians knotted the count with a run in the fourth on Hal Trosky's double and Jeff Heath's single, and another in the fifth when Hemsley singled and finally scored with aid of a passed ball, a sacrifice and an infield out.

That put it up to Feller and he promptly fizzled.

Lodigiani singled and Rosenthal doubled, the former scoring on an outfield fly. Rosenthal was run down on an infield grounder but Feller walked three men in a row to send the winning run over. Ray Mack's eighth-inning homer was wasted.

BOSTON REDS WIN

BOSTON, April 16—(AP)—Boston Red Sox on a three-run rally in the ninth to gain a 7-6 victory over Washington Senators Tuesday in the American League opener before a crowd of 17,500.

Catcher Frankie Pytlak blasted a two-bagger off Sid Hudson to launch Boston's winning rally and then Ted Williams, out of competition with a foot injury since March 19, set the stage with a pinch-hit single.

Hudson was replaced by Danny McFayden after Pete Fox connected safely. McFayden purposely passed Jimmy Foxx to fill the bases. He then walked Manager Joe Cronin to force over the winning run.

Cronin registered the first Boston run with a homer in the second inning and Bobby Doerr clouted a four-bagger with Cronin aboard in the fourth.

ATHLETICS DRUB YANKS

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—Lovill "Chubby" Dean of Philadelphia Athletics Tuesday handcuffed the Yankees on five hits for a 3-1 American League triumph before 4[illegible]28 fans.

The game was a scoreless struggle until, with two out in the seventh, Dick Siebert singled and Sam Chapman homered. Then with two out in the ninth Siebert singled for the third straight time and rookie Pete Suder doubled him home.

The Yanks didn't get a runner to third until the ninth, but Joe DiMaggio doubled in that frame and came home on an infield out and a long fly.

Plaque Given By Cadets To Giants

WEST POINT, N.Y., April 16—(BUP)—A plaque was presented to the New York Giants on behalf of the West Point Cadet Corps when the National League club took the field against Army's baseball team for the 12th exhibition game of their series here Monday.

The trophy was awarded to the Giants—who began playing Army in 1914—as a token of the friendly relations between the major leagues and the military academy. Brig.-Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, superintendent of the Academy, made the presentation.

The game will be played at Doubleday Field, named in honor of Abner Doubleday, a cadet at the Academy from 1838-42 and generally credited with having invented baseball.

Defeat Vancouver 31-30 For Second Straight Time

COMING from behind in the last quarter with a spirited drive, Edmonton Comets won the Western Canada senior women's basketball championship here last night by eeking out a 31-30 win over the Vancouver I.X.L. team in the second of best-of-three title series. Comets won the first game on Monday night by 38-26.

Comets trailed the Coast squad until the fourth minute of the last period when a penalty shot by Beryl Westbrook put them ahead for the first time.

Vancouver girls drew up a defensive that held the Comets at bay for the first half, but after the rest period the Edmonton club came back on the floor with the solution to this defence and outscored the Coast squad in each of the remaining quarters.

Vancouver led at half time by 16-8 as a result of outscoring the Comets 8-3 and 8-5 in the first two periods. In the last two periods the Comets outscored their rivals 11-4 and 12-10.

It was superior shooting accuracy that again won for the Comets, but it would probably be more truthful to say that it was lack of accuracy by Vancouver that decided the game. Comets had a distinct edge in field accuracy Monday night, but last night the Coast girls were slightly better snipers than the Edmontonians in the field. However the invaders failed to score a single one of nine penalty shots while the Comets dropped nine out of 15 free throws through the hoop.

Beryl Westbrook, playing her first season as a senior, led the scoring with 12 points. She graduated from Clare Hollingworth's Starlets. Alice Dalgleish of the Vancouver team was the second highest scorer of the night with 10 points.

COWLEY WINS HART TROPY

BOSTON, April 16.—(CP)—Bill Cowley, Boston Bruins centre, Tuesday night was awarded the Dr. David A. Hart Trophy for the most valuable player to his club. The Lady Byng Trophy, awarded to the most sportsmanlike player, was given for the second year to Boston Wingman Bobby Bauer.

Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, announced the awards at a Bruins victory dinner at which the Stanley Cup was presented to the champions.

Calder said Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, Bruins captain, and Sylvanus Apps, Toronto centre, were close second and third, respectively, for the Hart Trophy.

With The Pin Busters

In T.C.A. Mixed Fives on Tuesday night, D'Arcy McLeod of Traffics rolled 151, 184, 234 for a total of 569 and copped both single and triple highs. Traffics won three straight and their aggregate of 2277 was the best, with Operators next with 2094.

R. Lamont not only led Government Mixed, but really went to town in a big way when he posted a singles of 385. Mrs. Hannah's 708 was the best three game count.

Mrs. Hubert had top scores in the Tea Time League, turning in a one-game high of 273 and 462 for the double.

Alf. Blythe of Dawson Mines knocked over 194, 338, 252 for a total of 784 to take both single and triple highs in Mercantile Men's Fives. Dawson Mines won three in a row and piled up a total of 3215, the best of the night. Their games were 1013, 1127 and 1075. MacDonald's Cons. had [illegible] and Blimps 3007.

In the finals playoff in [illegible] A.G.T. Monos won the two-game total pins series from Switche[illegible] to take the league championship. H[illegible] singe and double went to Oak[illegible] of the Monos who scored 333 and 237 in his two games.

EXPLANATION OF TODAY'S CARTOON

THE OLDEST AMERICAN MONEY: Coins made out of coal were discovered in an aboriginal burial mound at Vidalia, Parish of Concordia, Louisana, in 1848, and are considered the oldest American currency used by the Tensaw tribe of Indians in times gone by. The dots and dashes were the denominations. THE ARMLESS HOUSE BUILDER: Vincent Hart, World War veteran whose both arms are off above the elbows, settled at Danville, Georgia, and built his own home, unaided, on land provided by a friend. Artificial arms provided with hooks enable him to handle tools so proficiently that Hart was able to saw the lumber, put it in place and nail it without any assistance. When the frame was finished and the roofing paper applied, he papered the interior of the house. He is a competent housekeeper as well as builder, doing his own cooking, cleaning and laundering. He even canned fruit and vegetables for use during the past winter.

Montreal Royals Defeat Oshawa 7-4 To End Junior Hockey Famine For Quebec

TORONTO, April 16.—(CP)—A 22-year famine ended Tuesday night when Montreal Royals became the first team from Quebec province ever to enter the Memorial Cup final by defeating Oshawa Generals 7-4 in the fifth game of their best-of-five series for the Eastern Canadian Junior Hockey title.

At the same time the youngsters from Montreal, who overcame a series of handicaps that ran from a star defenceman getting hurt early in the second period to a half dozen of their number falling victim to "air sickness" on a plane ride earlier in the day from Montreal, also put an end to Oshawa's hopes of a third straight Memorial Cup.

Royals entered the game with one of their three defencemen—Bob Macfarlane—suffering from a badly bruised side. But Macfarlane was forced to play almost all of the last two periods when Bruce Ward, rated as the Royals best rearguard, wrenched his knee. Ward only made two appearances after that.

Royals goals last night went to Buddy Farmer and Bobby Carragher, who had two apiece, and Grant Morrison, Bill Southwick and Ken Mosdell. Defenceman Frankie Eddols, next to Goalie Ross Ritchie the outstanding man on the ice, fired home two of Oshawa's goals and helped in the other two scored by Ron Nelson and Stan Rooke.

Royals staggered a crowd of close to 8,000 fans by running up a 4-0 lead by the time the five minute mark had been reached in the second period.

Morrison and Southwick got their scores only 10 seconds apart in the first period while Goose Hewson was serving a boarding penalty. Carragher scored later in the stanza while Morrison and Wally Wilson were serving roughing penalties, and then Mosdell pushed home the fourth goal at exactly the five minute mark in the second session on a passing play with Jimmy Planche and Southwick.

That lead looked safe enough but things exploded with a bang for Royals when Ward twisted his knee on a play that saw Jim Conacher of the Generals try to force his way through the Montreal defence and carry both Royals rearguards to the ice.

Coach Lorne White was forced to toss Macfarlane into the game to pair with Southwick and it took some time for Macfarlane to get his bearings. The Generals took advantage of a disorganized Montreal team to run in four goals in a row, Eddolls showing the way with his canny playmaking and rushing.

Just before the end of the second period, however, Hewson took his second penalty of the game and again it resulted in Royals putting the puck by Goalie Dick Schad of the Generals. Farmer got the goal that put Royals ahead 5-4 and they were never caught again.

Half way through the final period, with Generals seemingly unable to shake loose in any sort of offensive due to close checking by the Royals, Farmer made it 6-4 giving him five scoring points for the game. Carragher broke away in the last minute for another goal.

Late in the third period Farmer was hurt when boarded and he retired to the dressing room. After the game it was learned that he would have to undergo an operation to have a cheek-bone reset. It was not known immediately if he would be able to play in the Memorial Cup final against the Western Canada titlists.

Open Champion Knocks Out Pollitt In Third Round

PONOKA, April 16.—(CP)—Webb Frizzell of Lacombe, provincial and national 135-pound open boxing champion, won the Canadian Legion belt for the third consecutive time by scoring a knockout in the third round of a scheduled five-round bout, over Art Pollitt of Calgary in a feature match of the Alberta amateur boxing championships here Tuesday night.

The belt is awarded annually to the winner of the outstanding bout, although not necessarily the outstanding boxer. A total of 27 championships were decided in the two-day tourney.

Frizzell floored the Calgary boy for a count of nine in the second round but made no mistake flailing him with sizzling left and right crosses to score the knockout at 1:35 of the third. The knockout blow was a short right that travelled less than seven inches.

Runners-up for the belt were Billy McKenna, 19-year-old Lethbridge boy who copped four titles and Ralph Fisher, a member of the Edmonton Fusiliers who received honorable mention for his bouts.

Following are the winners in all divisions and events:

80-Pound Junior:
Casper Myer, Cardston Amateur Athletic Association, runner-up Bud McBride, Benalto, Alta.

90-Pound Junior:
Byng Bezer, Cardston Amateur Athletic Association, no other competitors.

Work To Proceed

OTTAWA, April 16—(CP)—Decision that work should go on pending final negotiations in any dispute in Canada's construction industry was reached Tuesday at a meeting of the national joint conference of the industry.

C.A.H.A. CHIEFS CONCLUDE ANNUAL HOCKEY MEETING

CALGARY, April 16—(CP)—The men who manage Canada's hockey—now a major business with an annual turnover of more than $1,000,000—have reviewed the administration for the past year and laid plans for next year's operation.

The 27th annual convention of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association which concluded Tuesday made no radical changes but it handled in the past four days numerous matters calculated to improve the administration of the Dominion's largest sport.

Major items decided by the convention include revision of regulations to speed up and clarify transfer of players and to provide that replacement of players lost through enlistments are made within certain time limits.

A debate arose out of a resolution that Jack Forsey, a Calgary product, should reimburse the Baltimore club of the Eastern United States Amateur League for $84 spent by the club in scouting and signing him.

President George Dudley of Midland, Ont., and Prof. W. G. Hardy of Edmonton, past president, led the fight for approval of the resolution and the former summed up the feeling of those who favored the resolution when he said:

"We should show a player he cannot play fast and loose with everybody and that once he signs a contract it is binding."

The convention adopted a motion that Forsey should be forced to pay the nominal sum of $25 to the Baltimore club.

Other important decisions of the convention were that:

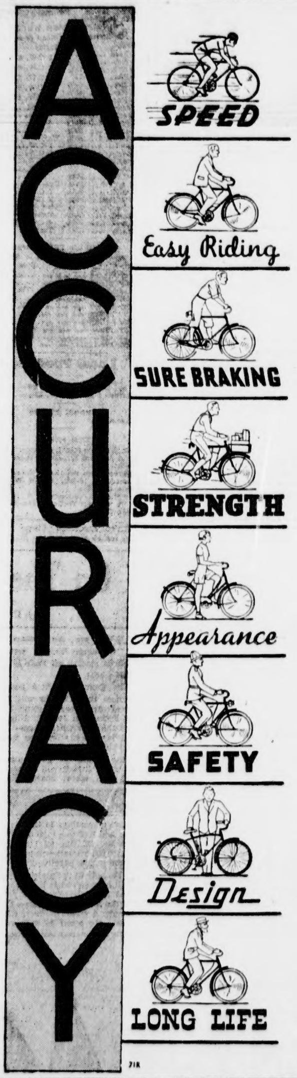
Profits made through playoffs in excess of the $30,000 budget should be split up with 75 per cent going to senior and junior clubs on a basis of the number of games each played in the playoffs and 25 per cent to war charities.

Managers or coaches who go on the ice without permission of the referee or strike an official will be automatically suspended and the case decided by branch officials. Officials are authorized to rule that such suspended managers or coaches cannot enter rinks.

Nearly $3,000 is to be divided among senior, junior, juvenile, midget and bantam clubs according to their share in developing 20 players signed by professional clubs in the last year.

The finance committee will study a request that travelling and hotel allowances for teams in playoffs be increased and that special grants be given to both visiting and home teams for each playoff game. For the 1941-42 season the 53-inch stick maximum for length of sticks would be continued.

There were no changes in the playing rules but the C.A.H.A. will refer to the National Hockey League suggestions for new markings on ice surfaces.



What counts in a bicycle!

SMART appearance — strength — long life — easy pedalling — sure-acting coaster brake — all of these and a dozen other things that you get in a C.C.M. Bicycle are important. But the most important of them all is the Accuracy with which C.C.M. bicycles are built.

A C.C.M. is a beautiful piece of precision-built machinery down to the smallest detail. Particularly is this true of the main moving parts — the front hub, the rear hub, and the hanger to which the main sprocket, cranks and pedals are attached. These parts are carefully machined by precision tools and are closely tested for accuracy.

Thus the fast moving parts fit so accurately together and work with such sweet harmony that very little leg power is required to make the C.C.M. move swiftly along the road. It's this amazing accuracy that is the secret of the C.C.M.'s smooth, quiet running, and the long life of its main working parts.

Even a small imperfection in the machining of a fast-working part, or a bearing that is not quite true, can set up a surprising amount of internal friction, which, if continued day after day, will shorten the life of the bicycle and make it harder to pedal. C.C.M.'s extreme accuracy in manufacture safe-guards against this.

Therefore, when you go to buy your bicycle look for the things that count. First for C.C.M. Accuracy. Then for C.C.M.'s Chromium plate over 20-year nickel; C.C.M. Frames of steel tubing; C.C.M.'s free-running Coaster Brake; C.C.M. Hanger; Dunlop Tires; and other famous C.C.M. features. Choose a bicycle that comes from the plant where Accuracy is the watchword of the institution. It's your assurance of long years of riding satisfaction.

MAYOR HAGUE'S BASEBALL SHOW TO DRAW 60,000

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 16—(AP)—The annual baseball miracle of opening day at Roosevelt Stadium is scheduled for Thursday.

In the stadium where minor league baseball atendance records bloom on opening days under the magic wand of a Mayor Frank Hague proclamation, Jersey City Giants of the International League will start their campaign against Rochester Red Wings.

But this is incidental to the attendance.

Last year the official attendance was announced as 50,529, a new minor league record.

Mayor Hague—while his office prepared the annual proclamation of a half-holiday for schools, government offices and all other things in the Jersey City domain—welcomed this year's Little Giants and their new manager, Tony Cucinello, with the announcement that 55,000 tickets already have been sold and announced that Thursday's attendance mark would be 60,000.

The park has 25,000 seats.

Pays Tribute

LONDON, April 16—(CP)—Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts of South Africa Tuesday sent a message to the people of the Belgian Congo "paying tribute to the part played by their troops in the Abyssinian campaign," the British Broadcasting Corporation said last night.

On The Farm Front

By British United Press

EXCLUSIVE

HERE are the reasons why Canadian farmers won't be able to market all their 1940 and 1941 wheat.

The Canadian wheat board announces that Canada will have a wheat carry-over of about 550,000,000 bushels on July 31. This means that the 1940 wheat crop—the second largest in Canadian history—will still be on hand.

The Dominion government has intimated that it will authorize the Canadian wheat board to restrict wheat marketings in Canada during 1941 and 1942 to a total of 230,000,000 bushels. Of the total marketings, 223,000,000 bushels will be permitted in the prairie provinces.

Farmers in the prairie provinces will be required to base their 1941 and 1942 deliveries on 65 per cent of the 1940 wheat acreage. For example: A wheat producer who had 200 acres sown in 1940 will be able to base his deliveries for 1941 and 1942 on 130 acres.

The Canadian Wheat Board has worked out the principles of a quota plan for the prairie farmers. This scheme will equitably distribute total marketings of about 233 million bushels over 65 per cent. of each wheat producer's 1940 wheat acreage.

Provided the usual wide variation in yields occurs, the plan involves the use of a straight bushels per acre basis in the first part of the crop year. From then on the scheme will be on an upward sliding scale based on the local yield per acre.

Last week was "historic" as far as the Canadian grain trade is concerned. Wheat stocks in Canada during the week showed a decline of 5.4 million bushels and the visible supply of wheat dropped to 474 million bushels. This compares with 309.5 million bushels a year ago.

Navigation on the Great Lakes was resumed. Four steamers cleared with cargoes of wheat exceeding one million bushels. This was the earliest spring movement of grain from Fort William and Port Arthur since 1921.

Western Canada farmers delivered only 3.5 million bushels of wheat last week. This brings the season's primary marketing up to 346.7 million bushels—as compared with 386 million bushels in the corresponding period last year.

A heavy movement of wheat is now in progress from country to terminal points, and the quantity of wheat on rails in Canada is almost 26 million bushels. The lakehead elevators are still well filled but space will soon be available as boats load out for eastern elevators.

And now for a short item from the United States.

Foreign countries apparently are finding American farm equipment more valuable. Final figures show that the United States exported five and one-half million dollars worth of farm equipment during February. That is twenty-one per cent more than a year earlier.

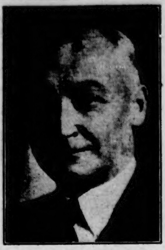
Here's an interesting note for chicken farmers.

Of the 18 million 700 thousand chicks produced in Canada in 1940 under the Dominion poultry breeding program, more than three million four hundred thousand were record of performance sired. Preliminary 1941 reports show an even stronger trend toward the use of R.O.P. males to head commercial hatchery flocks.



Vice-President

HARRY F. PATTERSON, whose appointment as executive vice-president of the Bank of Nova Scotia is announced. Mr. Patterson is a native of New Brunswick and entered the service of the bank at Campbellton, N.B. In succeeding years he served at Newcastle, Chicago, Toronto and Ottawa. Calgary Power's Net Profit For Year Is $368,581

MONTREAL, April 16.—(CP)—Net profit of $368,581, equal to 41 cents a common share, was reported Tuesday by Calgary Power Company, Limited, for 1940, compared with $508,653 or $4.32 a share in 1939.

Gross earnings reached $2,338,075, against $2,173,613. Depreciation was higher by $100,000 at $400,000, while tax provision of $213,022 compared with $129,437.

Current assets were $1,777,096 and current liabilities $698,520, against $1,164,521 and $582,711 respectively a year earlier. Net working capital accordingly was $1,058,576, up from $581,810.

Quebec Will Pay Cheese Premium: Wheat Price Up

QUEBEC, April 16.—(CP)—Premier Godbout told the legislative assembly Tuesday the provincial government has decided to grant farmers a 2½ cent premium on cheese rather than accept the Dominion's offer to pay part of the cost of bringing several million bushels of wheat from Western Canada to Quebec for cattle fodder.

As soon as the Dominion government made known its offer, Mr. Godbout said, wheat dealers in the west increased the price of their wheat. The provincial government was unwilling, he added, to pay out millions of dollars for the benefit of the dealers.

Arizona was the last state admitted to the Union.

McCoy Health Service

Some of the causes of low blood pressure are: A flabby, relaxed tone of the blood vessel walls, lack of exercise, the habit of shallow breathing, and exhaustion of the vital powers through wrong food habits and through wasting nervous energy by destructive thinking. Any of those causes which tend to bring about enervation, or weakness, will at the same time pave the way for low blood pressure. Low blood pressure should be overcome, if for no other reason than it frequently precedes the development of disorders marked by enervation such as diabetes, tuberculosis of the lungs, and anemia.

Unless the patient has a doctor take the blood pressure he may not be aware that low blood pressure is causing the symptoms he experiences from time to time. Some of the frequent symptoms of low blood pressure are: A tired feeling, inability to concentrate, and perhaps, numbness of the hands or feet. The principal complaint of the patient may be just that he does not feel as well as he thinks he should. After a strain due to over-work, unwise eating or emotional disturbances, the patient may notice mild pains in various parts of the body such as the chest region, the arms, shoulders, legs or back. He may be distressed by discomfort after eating, or by dizziness.

The one symptom most often found among low blood pressure patients is fatigue. If you find that you become tired too easily, then it is a good plan for you to have the blood pressure tested. If it is too low, you should begin immediately to build it up closer to normal and you will find your symptoms gradually disappearing as the desired raise in pressure occurs.

Low blood pressure can be overcome, there is no doubt about that, and the patient notes such an increase in strength and well-being after the blood pressure reaches 120 that he is satisfied all of the effort required has been more than worth while. Certainly, when the blood pressure is below normal, the patient is bound to improve by using those measures which will help to bring it back up again. After this has been accomplished, he finds that he is able to do more, and at the same time, to get more out of life.

The correction of low blood pressure depends upon building up a good quality of blood and upon developing all of the functional powers of the body. The weakness of the muscles must be gradually overcome by physical culture exercises and walking. The improvement is usually slow and the patient must be persistent to obtain the full results from his effort. Exercise alone will bring about a temporary increase in blood pressure and this increase will gradually become permanent if the patient continues to exercise until every muscle in the body possesses normal strength.

The patient must be impressed with the very real necessity which faces him of developing increased strength. Muscular strength will only follow when the muscles are used and it is folly for the patient to expect to grow by constant resting. One of the most beneficial activities for him is walking. I have found that the patient who will walk day after day, gradually increasing the distance covered, will find a steady improvement in the blood pressure which occurs in the same time that the walking builds up endurance.

I will be glad to send you Dr. Frank McCoy's article on "Low Blood Pressure." To secure it, write and enclose ten cents and one large, self-addressed envelope.

Questions and Answers

Question: Mr. Robert W. inquires: "What causes the hands to be cold some of the time? Sometimes they tingle just as though they had gone to sleep."

Answer: The most common cause of coldness of the hands is poor circulation produced by lack of exercise. An interference with the blood circulation induced by heart trouble is also sufficient to cause the sensation, or it may be due to neurasthenia or anemia. If the underlying cause is lack of exercise, the use of vigorous calisthenics, together with walking, will be of benefit. You will find that plunging the hands in water as hot as can be borne for ten minutes, then plunging them in cold water one minute and rubbing them with a course towel will help. Walking will improve the circulation of blood all over the body if you walk vigorously and cover four or five miles each day. I do not know of any other exercise which will accomplish the same desirable results in improving the circulation as walking.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large, stamped self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service in care of this paper.

RECRUITING CALL BEING ISSUED HERE

1,000 Men Are Needed For Army Units—Some For Training Centre

Splendid response is reported by Lt. Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant, to the recent appeal for 1,000 men for various branches of the Canadian Army (A). This allotment to M.D. No. 13 is the 15th quota since the beginning of the war.

Lt. Col. Brown said that in addition to the 1,000 men now being enlisted, the new Royal Canadian Army Service Corps training centre at Red Deer which is expected to open the latter part of this month requires a permanent staff of 500 men.

He said that information had been received from Maj. J. Howard Gainor, M.C., district recruiting officer, with a medical board complete, was at Camrose on Tuesday. Hardisty is being visited Wednesday and on Thursday, Provost is being visited.

The recruiting party is being accompanied by Maj. F. E. White, of the 2nd Armored regiment, (L.S.H., R.C.), C.A.(A) who is seeking 150 young men, preferably those who have spent their lives driving tractors on farms. These men are required for a light cruiser tank regiment. "This is an opportunity for young men who are anxious to have some adventure," said Lt. Col. Brown.

In the meantime, recruiting is proceeding at No. 13A Sub-Depot, Prince of Wales armory, under Lt. Col. Allan H. Elliott. Tradesmen are specially required.

In connection with special pay for tradesmen, it was pointed out that there are three different classifications. Tradesmen who come under the heading of "A" classification receive 75 cents a day extra; those under "B" receive 50 cents a day extra and those under "C" receive 25 cents a day in addition to regular pay and allowances.

Men are needed for the engineers, armored division, army service corps, signals and other branches of the service.

City War Services Fund Near Striking Distance $75,000 Objective Now

With contributions of $3,370 received on Tuesday the Edmonton Canadian War Services Fund rose to $66,659 and to within $8,341 of the $75,000 quota set for the city, it was disclosed Wednesday by L. Y. Cairns, K.C., chairman of the publicity committee for Northern Alberta.

The Alberta Government Telephone employees donated $3,344. This is distributed on a basis of $1,830 for the fund in Southern Alberta, and $1,561.20 for the northern fund. The amounts will be paid in equal monthly installments, according to J. D. Baker, deputy minister of telephones, and R. Malley, chief accountant, who made the donation on behalf of the telephone employees.

A contribution of $250 was received from the British American Oil Co., Ltd., with employees participating 100 per cent.

The residential canvass is proceeding rapidly and contributions Wednesday include a $100 donation.

Many of the rural organizations are working hard to complete their canvass by Saturday, but some areas, due to difficult transportation problems, have not been able to complete organization. This situation is now being cleared up, and active work started in all districts.

NEW QUOTA

From Bon Accord comes the news that the $100 quota fixed by the central committee has been passed and the local committee has re-established a new quota of $200 which it is expected will be reached within the next few days.

A donation of $100 has been sent from Amisk's Soldier Welfare Committee through D. R. Mitchell, and through Henry Hauck the village of Heisler has sent in a cheque of $232.50, being part of the collection now being made in the village and district.

Out of the northland a generous personal contribution has been sent the fund by Rev. A. S. Dewdney.

In town for the teachers' convention, Miss Joan Harvey, teacher at Wye school, near Ardrossan, came to the central office with a $5 contribution subscribed through the pennies and nickles of the school children.

MORE MONEY

A contribution of $288.67 has been sent from Vermilion, and a further cheque for $222.75 has been received from the Ponoka committee. The latter cheque includes contributions from Morningside also.

John A. King, chairman of rural organization, has addressed a letter to chairman of the committees in the rural areas asking for their immediate co-operation in securing every possible contribution within the next few days but to carry on "until we can say that every one has had an opportunity to make a contribution to this worthy cause."

Old-Timer Of City Dies In Victoria

John Percival Bailey, 66, resident of Edmonton for 26 years, and for many years a customs officer here, died Tuesday at Victoria, B.C., where he had been living in retirement since September, 1939.

Mr. Bailey was born in Stoke-On-Trent, Staffordshire, Eng., and served in the first Great War with an Edmonton battalion. He leaves his widow in Victoria, two sons, Arnold and Alan, and one daughter, Winnifred, Mrs. D. Duncan, all living in Edmonton.

INDUSTRIAL SET-UP TOLD TO TEACHERS

Dr. Harold Rugg, New York, Speaks—Here For Convention

Three phases of the present North American industrial set-up were reviewed Tuesday evening when Dr. Harold Rugg, of the Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York, addressed a public meeting in the McDougall church auditorium, in conjunction with the teachers' convention in the Macdonald hotel here this week.

Close to 1,500 teachers from all parts of the province, and their friends, listened eagerly to the speaker as he traced the causes as he saw them of the industrial situation and the tie-up of that problem with the difficulties prevalent in the educational world.

THREE GRAPHS

Dr. Rugg, who is a recognized expert on social studies and current events, pictured three graphs, each originating from a straight horizontal line.

The first graph he called industrial production, and he showed how, since the turn of the century, production has taken on a tremendous upward curve. Production, he said, has increased with man's ability to produce his everyday needs and luxuries and the cheapness by which these commodities can be produced. The methods of production have been neglected to some extent in the general upsweep, he declared.

Dr. Rugg's second graph represented man's ability to govern, or his social invention. This line he stated ran fairly level until about ten years ago, with neither a sharp trend upwards or a steep drop down the scale.

His third graph pictured popular consent, or understanding of the masses, and he pictured the line of understanding as having dropped considerably.

The speaker's conclusion after surveying these graphs was that if the people of the world, and more particularly of North America, can make the graphs of mass understanding and of ability to

JOHN W. BARNETT

A.T.A. Executives

James A. Smith, of Paradise Valley, was named president by acclamation of the Alberta Teachers' Association Wednesday at the annual convention in the Macdonald hotel. He succeeds Raymond E. Shaul. John W. Barnett will continue in his position as general secretary. Other new officers include Dr. H. E. Smith, College of Education, University of Alberta, vice-president; geographic representatives: Northeast Alberta, L. L. Kostash, Andrew; Central Alberta, A. A. Aldridge, Bawlf; Southeastern Alberta, R. A. Morton, Hanna; Southwestern Alberta, Sydney White, Blairmore; Calgary and district, L. A. Daniels, Calgary; Edmonton and district, T. D. Baker, Edmonton; Northern Alberta, H. C. Melsness, Grande Prairie.

AROUND THE TOWN

Initial presentation of the Victory Players' production, "The Misleading Lady" planned for this month, has been postponed, officials of the organization said Wednesday.

City property valued at $5,000 has been sold during the past two days on which five modern dwellings will be erected, it was disclosed Wednesday by J. Patterson, city land department superintendent.

Special performance of the Edmonton Little Theatre production of "Tony Draws a Horse" will be given at the Canadian Legion War Services hut at 7:30 p.m. next Sunday, it was announced Wednesday by Lt. Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant. The play has been attracting large audiences at the Masonic Temple during early days of this week.

Walter J. Long, former manager of the Rialto theatre here, has been named manager of the Odeon Theatres of Canada Ltd. in British Columbia and manager of the Vogue theatre in Vancouver. Assisting Mr. Long in the management of the Vogue theatre will be Louis Anderson, formerly of Wetaskiwin. He worked for a time with the Rialto theatre here, and also at Calgary where he was associated with Empire Films.

Lt. Col. J. Reid, D.M.O., M.D. No. 13, with headquarters at Calgary, has returned south after conferring with officers at the Edmonton Garrison hospital and medical officers of garrison units.

First of the Edmonton Garrison units to go to Sarcee Camp for annual training, will be the University of Alberta Company of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps, according to Lt. Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant. This unit is expected to leave here on the night of April 30.

Two Edmonton airmen, LAC's W. J. Smith and Turner were among graduates this week from No. 7 service flying training school at Macleod. Presentations to members of the graduating class were attended by a large number of the townspeople.

New trial was ordered Wednesday in the charges of breaking and entering and being in possession of property allegedly stolen from the Henry Birks and Sons Ltd. store here, as the Alberta appeal court allowed an appeal by Daniel Brent, Edmonton, against jury conviction and five-year sentence imposed on him by Mr. Justice S. J. Shepherd. Neil D. Maclean, K.C., represented the appellant.

Democratic Education, New Economic System Is Premier's Appeal

Aim of the Alberta government is to organize education on a democratic basis and to provide urban and rural school children with the benefits of a better education, Premier William Aberhart, minister of education, told the Alberta School Teachers' Convention at the Macdonald hotel Tuesday afternoon. He spoke on "Our Task As Educationists."

He declared the educationists' task was fourfold: (1) to win the war; (2) meet the war debts; (3) maintain the democratic way of life; (4) to ensure that children follow that way of life when they grow up.

Premier Aberhart stressed the fact that winning the war was not enough. The people must be freed from economic bondage—from a mountain of debt.

Dealing with the reorganization of rural education into larger units—divisions—Premier Aberhart said this move had resulted in considerable improvement in the standard of education.

IMPROVED SERVICES

Improved library service was being provided. School supplies could now be purchased cheaper due to large-scale buying, with the savings thus made being ploughed back for school services. Schools were being renovated and health services improved.

The premier's address follows in part:

As most of you know, we have been trying our level best to get our schools and our educational system organized on a proper democratic basis, so that the opportunity for a higher and better education will be

THE Lamont large school unit co-operated to supply the students with cod liver oil capsules during the five winter months. And while this item is open to the suggestion that the kids who don't behave might have to take their oil "straight" as punishment, the fact still remains if these large school units keep barging ahead with any more improvements in their treatment of the school population, the city schools will soon have to start pepping up if they want to keep in the running.

Dr. Harold Rugg, the educational expert from Columbia Teachers' college, who has inspired many of the new educational ideas, and who is in the city attending the teachers' convention, has apparently been the centre of considerable controversy in his home district.

According to the story, several of Dr. Rugg's text books have been severely criticized as being un-American and as advocating economic doctrines that don't quite suit the critics.

With those familiar slogans to work on, it also appears that there has been a drive to skid the Doctor's text books out of many of the schools.

THE QUESTION

Has the flame of freedom been extinguished by the Nazis in Norway?

THE ANSWERS

CARL BERG, labor leader: Despite its present mastery by Hitler's hordes, the Norwegian people continue to fight valiantly for freedom. All thought in Norway is centred on the reign of freedom again. There is continued and increasing resistance to the new masters of Norway. It ranges from passive resistance by whole towns and districts to active forays by Norwegian naval units and air force planes.

TOM SMITH, former courthouse orderly: Quisling, the country's Judas, requires a police bodyguard and a German military guard when travelling on his lecture tours. This bodyguard will little avail him when the country is free again.

HARRY JENNINGS, salesman: There is ample evidence that the Norwegians, although now overwhelmed by force, retain their national spirit, their determination to be independent again. Throughout the world the sons of Norway are preparing to do something for the homeland. They have "Little Norway," an air force training centre in Ontario. The determination and resourcefulness of the Norwegian people will be rewarded by freedom regained.

TWO IN HOSPITAL AFTER COLLISION AUTO AND TRUCK

Head-on collision between a 1½-ton truck and an automobile at 118 avenue and Kingsway at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, put a man and woman in hospital with painful head injuries and caused heavy damage to the passenger car.

Rose Kurlock, 12636 127 street, suffered a deep cut over the right eye, and Gregory Golf, 10562 102 street, was cut above the forehead when the car driven east on 118 avenue by Golf collided with a westbound truck operated by Walter Roberts, 8310 81 avenue. Roberts was uninjured.

Miss Kurlock and Golf were taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital. Their condition is not considered serious.

Appeal by the crown against the dismissal of a charge against Conrad Fritz, Edmonton, of being in possession of liquor stolen from the Vegreville liquor store has been abandoned, it was stated by Crown Prosecutor J. W. McClung, K.C., in appeal court Wednesday.

TEACHERS CAN LAUNCH MOVE CO-OPERATION

Archbishop MacDonald Addresses Convention On Credit Unions

Importance of Canada as a future example of the co-operative movement was pointed out Wednesday morning in an address by Archbishop J. H. MacDonald, speaking on "Credit Unions" before delegates to the 24th annual convention of the Alberta Teachers' Association in the Macdonald hotel.

Archbishop MacDonald stated that in the post-war years when the industrial world is in a state of turmoil, the teachers of Canada, in a co-operative movement, will become the focal point for the eyes of a world ready to launch a new co-operative program.

The speaker outlined briefly the history of the movement from its origin after the Napoleonic Wars to the present day. He advised teachers to make sure that their people were educated for co-operation before launching any type of union in their communities.

PRIMARY AIM

Archbishop MacDonald declared that the credit union is a co-operative way of life based on Christian teachings. The common good, he said, is the primary aim of co-operation. The movement, he said, aims to educate everyone in the community, for the betterment and happiness of every member of that community.

The speaker was introduced by Frank W. Coffey.

Other speakers during the morning included Leo Kunelius, Willing-

Wedding Vows Are Pledged Easter Monday

At a quiet wedding ceremony on Monday, Rev. A. Finnis Marsh united in marriage Eunice Elizabeth, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Tomlinson of McLeod Valley, and LAC James Alexander Campbell, son of Mrs. J. A. Campbell of Edmonton, and the late Mr. J. A. Campbell. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bridegroom's mother, in the presence of the immediate families of the bridal couple, and a few close friends.

For her wedding, the bride wore a suit ensemble of navy blue, smartly set off with white and navy accessories. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses. Miss Thelia Tomlinson, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing a dress of Alice blue with white and navy accessories. Her corsage was of talisman roses. Supporting the groom as best man was Mr. Ian Campbell, brother of the groom. Mr. T. V. Newlove played the wedding march.

For the ceremony, Mrs. Tomlinson, chose a grey ensemble with which she wore dainty pink roses en corsage. Mrs. Campbell, mother of the groom, was gowned most charmingly in black sheer. Her corsage was also of pink roses.

A soft glow from tall pink tapers lighted the bride's table, which was centred with a wedding cake and flanked with bowls of pink and white carnations.

The bridal couple will spend a few days in Edmonton before returning to Toronto, where the groom is stationed with the R.C.A.F.

Out of town guests at the wedding included Dr. Ada French and Mr. Henry Tomlinson of McLeod Valley, Alta.

Council Group Holds Meeting On Tuesday

Reviewing their work, members of the health division of the Edmonton Council of Social Agencies, met on Tuesday evening for dinner, in the dining room of the King Edward hotel. Dr. Mildred Folinsbee Newell, president of the division, was in the chair.

A report was given by Miss Mary Griffiths, on the class being conducted under the supervision of herself and Miss Viola Leadlay, of the Victorian Order of Nurses, on "Maternal and Child Care." Miss Griffiths reported that the classes were being well attended by expectant mothers. Members of the Chatelaine Club, at the Y.W.C.A., act as hostesses for these classes. Any one interested in attending the classes is requested to contact the office of the Council of Social Agencies.

Mrs. Ross Vant, who is convener of the nutrition committee, gave a short report on the work of the committee, which consists of herself, Dr. L. B. Pett and Miss Alberta Haslie. The nutrition committee announce that they are willing to give advisory addresses on nutrition, to any city group desiring assistance of this nature.

DISCUSSION

A discussion on "Hospital Social Service" was opened by Dr. E. M. Hunter, who read a paper on the merits of hospital social service in the American hospitals. At the next meeting the division will discuss the situation in the Canadian hospitals, and the possibility of installing social service in Edmonton hospitals. The next meeting of the health division will be held in May.

Liberal Women Hear Talk By Canada M.P.

Trade Minister Tells Of Recent Trip To South America

BRINGING to his listeners an interesting and vivid account of his visit as head of the Canadian Trade Commission to South and Central Americas and of the work of the commission in fostering friendly relations and in opening up new trade markets for Canadian produce, Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce in the Dominion government and M.P. for West Edmonton, spoke to members of the Edmonton Women's Liberal Club at their meeting in the Y.W.C.A. clubrooms on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. B. Stewart, president of the club, welcomed Mr. MacKinnon on behalf of the club. A warm vote of thanks was extended to him by Mrs. Joseph A. Clarke at the conclusion of the address.

When European markets were lost to Canada, Mr. MacKinnon stated, Canadian trade officials were obliged to look elsewhere for markets. Central and South American countries have made rapid progress in recent years and are very anxious to trade with Canada to a much greater extent, he continued. The United States is anxious, too, that Canada keep trade and amicable relations with these countries, and the United States committee for Better Relations with these countries assisted materially the work of the Canadian commission, giving advice and encouragement.

[illegible] a great admiration for the British [illegible] permanent [illegible] friendly relations with Canada.

While in Colombia Mr. MacKinnon was taken with the up-to-date appearance of the country and with the great strides the people have made commercially and in cultural and civic life. In the Bahamas, he found a great desire to trade more with Canada. In Nassau, Mr. MacKinnon was entertained at tea by the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. The Duke displayed a keen interest in Alberta and in his ranch in the province and in the whole of Canada. "The Duke is doing a splendid job for the Empire right where he is," said Mr. MacKinnon.

CANADA'S AID

Referring to Canada's assistance to the mother country in the war effort, Mr. MacKinnon stated that we have provided Great Britain already with $800,000,000 more in goods than we have been paid for, and will continue on that basis as long as the war lasts.

More than 150 Edmonton women were present to hear Mr. MacKinnon and stayed for tea afterward.

Tea was served from a table centred by a huge silver bouquet of Easter lilies and snapdragons. Mrs. William Brown and Mrs. J. J. Clooney presided at the urns.

Mrs. A. H. Gardiner was in charge of tea arrangements and was assisted by Mrs. William Mowat, Mrs. A. Vaillancourt, Mrs. C. E. Ferris, Mrs. J. R. [illegible], Mrs. Ella McLeod, Mrs. Ayscough and Mrs. M. S. Williamson.

I.O.D.E. Unit Plans Spring Tea Party

Mrs. John Munro will open her home at 11418 103 avenue on Sunday afternoon for a tea under the sponsorship of the Earl of Chester chapter, I.O.D.E. Plans were made for this affair at the recent monthly meeting of the Earl of Chester Chapter, held in the Macdonald hotel, with Mrs. Bradley Davis, regent, in the chair. Miss Jean Johnson will convene the tea, assisted by Mrs. Carol Rowell and Miss Ena May.

Mrs. Donald Manning, war work [illegible], reported at the meeting [illegible] during the month. Miss M[illegible] Hall, educational [illegible] sent to the Chapter's [illegible] Overseas [illegible].

MR. AND MRS. JAMES W. CUMMINGS

Best wishes of a wide circle of friends were extended to Mr. and Mrs. James W. Cummings of this city, at a reception arranged in their honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Renton, 8614 108A street, on Tuesday afternoon and evening. Mr. and Mrs. Cummings were married in Haliburton, Ontario, 50 years ago on Tuesday, and have lived in Edmonton since 1917. They came west in 1911, settling first in the Wainwright district.

Beloved Edmonton Couple Mark Happy Golden Wedding Day

MARKING the fiftieth anniversary of the happy day in Haliburton, Ontario, where they became bride and bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Cummings of this city observed their golden wedding day on Tuesday of this week, and were, during the day, made the recipients of flowers, cards and gifts from a host of friends in Edmonton.

On Monday evening immediate family members were present at a family dinner party in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Cummings and on Tuesday afternoon and evening the honored couple received the best wishes of their many friends at a [illegible] at the home of [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. H. Renton. [illegible] from the family was a purse of money.

150 CALL

More than 150 friends in district and social circles called to greet Mr. and Mrs. Cummings on Tuesday. Mrs. Cummings wore to receive her guests a smart afternoon frock of navy blue lace, with corsage of talisman roses at her shoulder.

Bouquets of lovely spring flowers, many of them gifts from their friends were arranged throughout the home in setting for the affair. Mr. and Mrs. Cummings received from early afternoon until six and then again in the evening.

TEA TABLE

Tea was served from a tea table laid in ecru cut lace and centred with the tiered wedding cake. Streamers in gold decorated the cake, and four golden tapers lighted the table. Mrs. T. Davies, Mrs. D. Brock, Mrs. C. Kieffer and Mrs. E. Pollock poured tea in the afternoon.

Assisting with the passing of tea were Miss Margaret Dickson, Mrs. Reginald Ireland and Miss Cora Renton, grandchildren and Miss Ruth Byrant. Passing tea in the evening were Mrs. W. McTaggart, Mrs. B. Cummings and Miss O. Cummings.

Four generations of one family were present for the occasion, children, grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Arriving in Edmonton on Saturday were Mrs. W. J. Hillyard, Penticton, B.C., Mrs. Olive Dickson, Radway, Alberta; Mrs. Carl Bueller, Long Beach, California; Mrs. Morton Hubert, Wainwright, and LAC James V. Cummings. Mrs. Reginald Ireland of Clairmont, granddaughter and her little girl, Rhea, were here also for the occasion.

SINCE 1911

Mr. and Mrs. Cummings have made their home in Alberta since 1911, residing first in the Wainwright district and coming to Edmonton in 1917. Mr. Cummings is a life member of the Masonic Lodge in Sterling, Ontario. He has one brother, Mr. W. G. Cummings, residing in Edmonton.

City Nurses To Take Positions On Executive

Registered Nurses Meet In Convention At Lethbridge

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., April 16—(CP) Miss Catharine Clibborn of Edmonton was named first vice-president of the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses' at the annual meeting here Tuesday. Sister Beatrice of Lethbridge is second vice-president and Miss Margaret McLean of Ponoka councillor.

Three sectional chairmen going into office include Miss Helen S. Peters of Edmonton for hospital and school of nursing; Miss Audrey Dick, Calgary, public health and Miss Leona Hennig, Edmonton general nursing. These are the only officers being voted upon at this annual meeting.

Edmonton was chosen as the convention city for 1942. It was moved that those now heading committees remain in office for the ensuing year.

The shortage of nurses was the most important item discussed at the session, it being left to the council meeting to make further investigations on this subject. The service of war aides or war maids in hospitals to relieve the shortage was under discussion, some delegates stating such a move would eliminate many duties now performed by the nurses during the war period.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Eight-hour day for nurses report revealed there are few hospitals in the province now on that schedule although there are 48 hospitals in Alberta. The report showed that the health and general morale of the entire nursing staff is improved under that schedule and it was felt that lectures and classes should be included as hours on duty for nurses.

The president of the A.A.R.N., Miss Rae Chittick of Calgary, said the organization is trying to give nurses an opportunity to be human beings off duty and she considered an eight-hour day a step in the right direction. Working conditions for nurses have improved and it was felt that there is a definite trend toward the eight hour schedule.

Drama Contest Is Planned By City C.G.I.T.

Announcement has been made that the C.G.I.T. drama festival will be held in the McDougall church hall on Friday and Saturday of this week. Campbell's Furniture Ltd. Celebrates 25th Anniversary

Store Looking Back On Long Years Of Service To Edmonton Shoppers

Pioneer Firm Specializes In Customer Satisfaction—Sales In Quarter Of Century Total $3,350,000

When a merchant looks back over a quarter of a century of service to the discerning buying public, he has every right to a feeling of justifiable pride in an exacting job well done.

T. H. CAMPBELL
President

NEIL CAMPBELL
Sales Manager

ALEX. CAMPBELL
Advertising Manager

This week T. H. Campbell, head of the pioneer house of Campbell's Furniture, Ltd., situated at 10135 100A street, took that very look. He peered back over 25 years and recalled many struggles and triumphs that have finally culminated in the present splendid store, which ranks with the best and most progressive of its kind in Western Canada.

The veteran proprietor of the Campbell Furniture store is capably assisted by two other Campbells who have practically grown up with the business. They are his two sons, Neil and Alex., who have become almost as well known as their father to the host of satisfied buyers who have been steady patrons of the Campbell store for many years.

CONFIDENCE IN FUTURE

The senior Campbell had little in the way of capital, but ample in the way of faith and confidence in the future of Edmonton when, on April 13, 1916, he opened a little shop on what was then known as Rice street, where he dealt in high grade second-hand furniture.

It was not long, under the dynamic leadership of Mr. Campbell, before the premises had to be increased in size because of a swelling volume of sales, due to a shrewd combination of well-placed advertising and customer-value knowledge.

Now the store has greater window space than any other furniture store in the Dominion and a total street frontage of 260 feet.

We hear much of million dollar business ventures and marvel at the magniture expressed in those figures.

$3,350,000 IN SALES

A good idea of the scope of trade operations carried out by the Campbell furniture firm in the last 25 years can be gained by the fact the firm has sold $3,350,000 worth of home furnishings.

This can only mean customer satisfaction well over the three million dollar mark and the period of expansion is by no means ended.

The same faith in the future of this city that has been so amply justified in the mind of Mr. Campbell, is more firmly rooted than ever.

A new and more beautiful store will be the firm's contribution to the bigger and better Edmonton of tomorrow.

While the business has grown from such a small beginning to its present order of magnitude, the personal touch between merchant and customer has never been lost by Mr. Campbell and his staff.

BASIC POLICY

It is a basic policy of the firm to emphasize personalized service. The customer's problem is always treated as the most pressing of all problems at the moment, no matter how seemingly insignificant the transaction may be.

All members of the staff are carefully and painstakingly trained in the knowledge of furniture, so that each and every customer is guaranteed a maximum of expert advice in everything pertaining to his purchase.

An interior decorator, considered a real expert in his line, Cliff Leask, is retained in order to assist customers in arriving at a scientifically-balanced color scheme when making purchases.

RECONDITIONED FURNITURE

While the best in new, modern furniture of all kinds can be purchased at Campbells, the store still specializes in reconditioned furniture of a high quality at extremely reasonable prices and on excellent terms.

In celebrating the silver anniversary this week Campbells Furniture Ltd. is offering a store full of new and magnificent articles of furniture at prices that represent a real sacrifice.

The Campbell family has played a prominent and useful part in the communal life of Edmonton.

The senior Mr. Campbell is well-known as an efficient organizer. He is a past president of the St. Andrew's association, the Edmonton Burns Club and the Highland Games Association.

Ivanhoe Masonic Lodge, Rotary Club and the Canadian Scottish Literary Society are other organizations with which his name has been associated.

Alex and Neil Campbell have gained considerable note as athletes, being active in rugby, swimming and basketball.

Alex Campbell, assistant manager of the store, and advertising director, is accomplished as an actor. He has also written and produced many radio and stage plays and written the Campbell Melody Hour, a popular weekly broadcast.

Neil Campbell is sales manager and is well known among the younger businessmen.

SUFFOCATION IS NOT DUE TO THE LACK OF OXYGEN
4-16

Most cases of suffocation are not actually caused by lack of oxygen, but rather to an excess of carbon dioxide, says the noted scientist, J. B. S. Haldane, in his book "The Adventures of a Biologist" (Harper, 1940). Experiments which Haldane's father and scientist Priestly conducted over a period of years showed that a person could live in air with so little oxygen that even a match would not burn in it; but that when the amount of carbon dioxide was increased, panting and suffocation began to take place. When one is "out of breath" and panting, the cause is excess carbon dioxide in the blood, rather than lack of oxygen, as the carbon dioxide stimulates the nerves to the breathing muscles.

An Amazing Money Saving Event!

Dorothy Dix Says:

A group of high school girls asks me who is my favorite heroine. Ah, that's a hard question to answer. There have been so many different reasons that I have never known which one I admired most. There are, just to name a few, Boadicea and Semiramis fighting to defend their countries and leading their armies to victory; Florence Nightingale, the ministering angel of modern nursing, Clara Barton, who founded the Red Cross. I take off my hat to each and every one of them, and thank them for benefits received.

Dorothy Dix

But, aside from these great ones, there are three smaller heroines who get little acclaim from the world at large, but who are the object of my own particular, private, personal reverence. The first of these is Eve who, it seems to me, has never got her just deserts because of that apple-eating episode. True, she got fired out of Eden, but think of the compensation she brought us! Consider her record of achievements.

She was the first human being ever to crave knowledge. She was the first person on earth ever to rise above the fatuous complacency of wanting to know more than they knew. She was the first original investigator, and [illegible] the [illegible] of all the [illegible] who, like her, have poked Paradise to find out what made the wheels go round.

My second dearly beloved heroine is Scheherazade, who discovered the one unfailing recipe for holding a husband and keeping him eating out of your hand. It is to keep him guessing. To keep him wondering what's coming next.

[illegible]

She is a frail little creature who toils beyond her strength every day in cooking and washing and sewing and patching and caring for her husband and children and a fretful old invalided mother.

Slimly Panelled Mature Style

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Pork is important as a protein food because of its high vitamin B1 content and its relatively low cost.

"A good diet containing liberal amounts of salads, green vegetables, fresh fruit, milk and meat provides daily about 500 International Units of thiamine (vitamine B1)," writes Dr. Henry Borsook, professor of biochemistry, California Institute of Technology, in his informative book, "Vitamins—What They Are and How They Can Benefit You".

Dr. Borsook observes also, "Fresh meat is a time-honored, somewhat overrated standby. One quarter-pound of fresh lean beef contains about 50 International Units of thiamine. Fowl and pork are much richer in this respect than beef."

PORK LOAF

(Serves 4 to 6)

One pound chopped pork, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 egg, beaten, 1 [illegible] chopped, pinch thyme or savory seasoning, salt, pepper, fine dry crumbs, bacon or salt pork, [illegible] flour, 1 cup [illegible].

[illegible] bread crumbs, [illegible] seasoning. Shape in a roll, coat with fine, dry [illegible] pan, and lay a few thin strips of bacon or salt pork over the top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for [illegible]. A few minutes before the meat is to be served, stir the flour into the fat in the pan and add [illegible]. Stir until the gravy is smooth and season with salt and pepper.

PORK AND NOODLE STEW

(Serves 4 to 6)

One-half pound ground lean pork, [illegible] celery, 2 medium-sized onions, chopped, 1 cup canned tomatoes, [illegible] pepper, ½ package noodles, ½ green pepper, chopped.

Brown the meat in its own fat. Add the celery, onions and green pepper and cook for a few minutes. The celery may be omitted [illegible] minutes. Add the noodles which have been cooked until tender in boiling salted water and drained.

PORK DIABLE

(Serves 4 to 6)

[illegible] cooked pork, sliced, 2 [illegible] 1 cup catsup, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, 1 table- [illegible] pepper [illegible] water, and [illegible]. When well blended, add sliced pork and simmer very slowly [illegible]

Your Baby And Mine

Small children learn to hit at their mothers, when the mothers use slapping and spanking to teach them to avoid certain behavior. However, mothers likewise do many things which small children do not like, so the children show their displeasure by hitting.

But, even without this maternal example of hitting, children do hit out when angry and then discover the excitement of it. Sometimes they may hit without showing the slightest sign of animosity. It is a sort of joyous exuberance of conduct which leads them to bite or hit other small children, just to be noticed.

Of course, when someone tries to put a child to bed, or stick him into a tub, or urge food upon him (all should be accomplished without force) he is quick to hit at the person trying to force him to do what he doesn't want to do.

Mrs. F.B.Y., wonders what she can do about this habit of hitting in her 15-months-old boy.

"He hits people who try to pick him up."

You didn't make it clear whether "picking up" has to do with behavior which must be performed, like the ceremonies cited above. If not, it may be that the child wants to be rid of the unwelcome attentions of the picker-upper.

SHOWN BY ACTS

I feel that if the person he hits puts him down quickly and walks away, he'll learn that this sort of behavior does not make friends for him. All children have to be shown by acts, not words, that certain ways of acting are decidedly unprofitable to them. When the adult does too much scolding her words confuse the child. He likes attention even though it is attention which we call discipline.

But [illegible] normal little boy he wants people to like him and he doesn't want to be ignored by them. If he finds that hitting gets him only isolation, bland stares or the swift turning away of the person who wanted to be nice to him, he'll get the point.

Our leaflet, "Obedience and Punishment," is available free to any mother on request. Address your request for it to Mrs. Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

Your Figure, Madame!

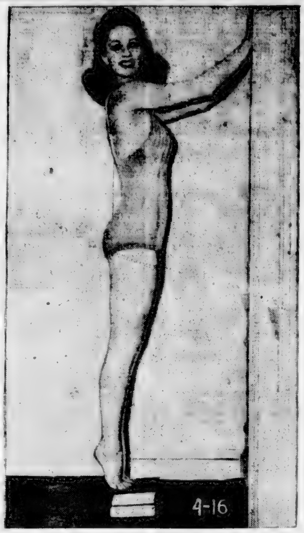
By IDA JEAN KAIN

Some fat ladies have frail legs, others possess legs that are not so frail. And some very slim girls have a well turned calf and ankle. All of this would seem to show it's not weight nearly so much as musculature.

Of course, weight may be a general problem. An overweight with disproportionately large legs needs to diet to lower her weight. If her leg muscles are flabby, special exercise will bring about a marked improvement. The thin girl with under-developed legs must have more calories to gain on, plus exercise to round out the leg contours. To lose weight, overweight with thin legs needs a similar set of exercises along with her diet.

Thick bones can't be changed but well-toned muscle is shapely and it tends to give you shapelier contours, including that tapered line from calf to ankle on which legs are judged.

Perfect measurements differ according to structure. For instance, the slight girl may have perfect legs measuring from 11¾ inches to 12½ inches at the calf, and from seven and one-half inches to eight at the ankle. A more solidly built girl may have legs equally good but measuring from 12½ inches to 14 at the calf, and from eight inches to eight and one-half at the ankles.



Elaine Shepard, stage and screen beauty, fully subscribes to the Ida Jean Kain theory that most legs need exercise. In addition to the book trick she demonstrates, she walks on her toes 10 minutes.

DEFINITELY TAPERED

But a good pair of legs always has a definitely tapered calf-to-ankle line, and it depends mostly on musculature. Flabby muscles give an up-and-down straight line which make thin legs look spindly and thick legs massive.

Legs that are too large improve most rapidly with the type of exercise which stretches the muscles. Stand on a large book, with ball of foot on the book and the heel free. Very slowly lower heels until they are touching the floor. Rise on toes and repeat twenty times. You can do the same exercise on a stairstep. Stand in the same position and lower the heels until a strong pull is felt in the calf muscles.

Another good leg stretcher is to sit on the floor with legs straight out in front, reach over and grasp the toes and pull toward you. Rest and repeat 20 times in all.

When the muscles are bunchy, massage is the most effective measure. Sit on floor with legs elevated a few inches on footstool or pillows. Work on one leg at a time. Grasp ankle firmly with both hands and, exerting a steady pressure, draw hands up toward knee. If you have massage, get your masseuse to devote about 15 minutes to your legs.

Generally speaking, legs need both contracting and stretching exercise. One of the simplest exercises is to keep on your toes for about ten minutes a day—kick off your shoes and walk or dance around on tiptoes for that length of time. Walking out of doors in heels that are not too high, swimming and bicycling are all good legwork. And, by the way, bicycling is often recommended for the correction of a knock-kneed appearance. When this is the result of inward rotation of the knees, pedalling strengthens the muscles in the right position so that you hold the kneecaps straight.

Prairie Girls Get Favored Positions B.C. Women Claim

VANCOUVER, April 16 — (CP) — Girls coming here from the prairies are snapping up jobs "within a week," and preventing Vancouver-born residents from finding positions other than housework, Mrs. Agnes B. Lumsden, president of the Vancouver girls' service group, protested to city council this week. The organization was set up to campaign for employment for members.

The United States does an annual business of $1,000,000,000 in the production of chickens and eggs.

What To Do

Look to your manners, girls, if you want to be popular! All good manners are based on kindness and consideration for others. Keep that in mind when confronted with a situation that is entirely new to you—do the kind thing.

Be courteous and you can't be wrong. What you do and how you act from day to day wherever you are develops your personality, interestingly or uninterestingly. A girl who makes no effort to be gracious or attractive in her everyday contacts cannot expect to be popular. A girl who does is sure to be much sought after by her friends.

You've got to be eager to please people. So use your party manners every day. One certain way to make sure of getting along with other people is to practice your good manners at home, so that when you are mingling with others away from home your manners are not "jumpy."

Look interesting. Always try to have a pleasing appearance. Remember in your aim to be popular that you always be well-groomed, neat and appropriately dressed on all occasions. Cultivate a sunny disposition, a pleasant expression and a wide-awake interested look. These are all expressive of your thought of others.

THE GAME OF Check

Don't Delay! Mail Your Entry Today!

On the bottom of this page, you will find a blank coupon which is labeled Identification Form. This is your means—and ours—of identifying your cartoon-questions.

All you have to do is print your name and address on this form and mail it in with your second set of 90 cartoons. By this method, you eliminate the necessity and bother of writing your name on each and every cartoon.

When these cartoons come into the office, your envelope will be opened and the 90 cartoons and your Identification Form stapled securely, ready for filing. All you have to do is arrange your cartoons in a sequence running from 91-180, facing them all in the same direction. Place the Identification Form on top and put all the clippings in an envelope, affix 4c postage (or 7c if you happen to live outside the city limits) and mail this envelope to the Contest Editor, Game of Check, The Edmonton Bulletin, in time for it to bear a postmark of not later than midnight, Saturday, April 19th, the deadline for the second 90 cartoons.

Of course, you can deliver your entry personally any day up to 10:30 p.m. and Saturday up to 8:30 p.m. Now's the time to act! This is the time to cash in! 260 prizes will be awarded. Strive to make that $500.00 First Prize yours!

Mealtime Aboard Corvette

Members of the crew aboard a Canadian corvette in active service crowd around the table at mealtime in the fo'c'sle. The salty tang of the sea and the hard open air work of seaman's life make for hearty appetites. Many corvettes are now being built in Canadian shipyards for the Canadian and British navies. Each costs approximately half a million dollars.

ANNUAL SALE OF SATIN-GLO IS CONTINUING

"Only those who are engaged in the paint manufacturing industry have any realization of the vast improvements that have taken place during the past decade" says J. Carl Pendray, president of British America Paint Co. Ltd. The company of which he is head employs the largest body of skilled workers to be found in any paint manufacturing plant in Western Canada, and not the least important of these is a laboratory staff specially trained in research pertaining to the paint business. Mr. Pendray points out that the company's well-known brand of Satin-Glo interior finishes are by no means the same as they were 10 or 20 years ago. As new methods and new ingredients are discovered they are thoroughly tested, over a period of months or even years, and when superiority is proven they are embodied in the various paints, varnishes, and enamels produced by the British America Paint Co. Ltd.

But it is one thing to make paint of the best possible quality. It is another thing to obtain such widespread distribution that the public will try it and approve its quality. The British America Paint Co. Ltd., accomplishes this by the simplest and most direct method. They offer Satin-Glo interior finishes in a country-wide 7-day sale each spring as a special inducement to have every home owner actually use the product and judge for himself its superior features. The inducement is a substantial one. A reduction of about one-third off regular prices. These reductions are only available on the three Satin-Glo interior finishes. Satin-Glo quickdrying Varnish and Enamels. Satin-Glo semi-gloss Satin Finish for wall decoration. With these three finishes the entire interior of the home can be brightened and beautified. Satin-Glo dealers throughout the Province of Alberta are authorized to allow this special reduction for one week only April 10 to 19.

Each leaf on a tree has a number of pores which open and shut to regulate the evaporation of excess moisture.

Getting Around

H. M. Watson and Dr. W. D. Lewis were appointed to examine these dangerous text books and bring in a report. And that's happened before [illegible].

And now the report has been released, and these eminent gentlemen have stepped forward and declared that Dr. Rugg has done nothing more than suggest that the existing economic system may not be entirely perfect and that it might be changed so as to give the ordinary man a little better chance in life. How awful!

This committee also charge that Dr. Rugg's critics have been taking short quotations out of their context, in order to distort the character of his books.

Then through the balance of the controversy appears suggestions that it is rival manufacturing groups, the American National Association of Manufacturers and Marvin K. Hart, the president of the New York State Economic Council who are all taking pot shots at Dr. Rugg.

The man must have something, if he can cause that much opposition all at once, and still get backed up by an educational investigating committee.

DEMOCRACY IN EDUCATION IS URGED AT MEET

available to every young person whether rural or urban.

We have made, in addition to a number of minor adjustments, two very notable advances during the past five years. First we have introduced into our schools, a program designed expressly to teach our young people the art of living peaceably together, the art of intelligent collaboration, growing out of natural interests and curiosities, in ways discovered and explored by group discussion. In this enterprise plan we are proceeding deliberately and without haste, learning as we go.

You see, when our young people [illegible] to the end of their school days [illegible] The [illegible] of life is a good [illegible] This [illegible] of intellectual [illegible] of friendly collaboration is a fine [illegible] skill and beauty, and health is an exciting quest. I am going to keep right on with this way of life and never leave it"—I say, [illegible] educationists will have [illegible] through its own innate character- [illegible]

SELECTION OF TEACHERS

As you know, the administration [illegible] Normal school and colleges [illegible] is very important. When we [illegible] young people of [illegible] salary schedules mutually negotiated between the divisional boards and the properly accredited representatives of the Divisional [illegible] Association. [illegible] stands solidly behind the British principle of collective bargaining, and has made the principle [illegible] of extreme capitalism.

I know, of course, that in some divisions, there are difficulties and disappointments. Nevertheless it is well that you should know that . . . salaries of the teachers for 1939-40 were a shade higher in practically every classification rural village consolidated, town, city and separate schools, and higher for the province as a whole than in the year 1929-30.

May I urge upon you—and especially upon the younger [illegible] experienced of you—that it is now more than ever your duty to study and remember your professional [illegible] to the public; to the school boards with whom you may seek employment or with whom you have employment; to the children under your control; and to your fellow teachers. You must not let your profession down. You must not let your leaders down—and I would respectfully suggest that you should not let your government down.

Probably I should mention that little item of legislation which deals with pensions for our teachers.

SUPERANNUATION FUND

The legislature acceded to the request of the board of administrators by passing legislation which requires the school boards of cities, towns, villages and consolidated districts to pay into the superannuation fund, for a period of five years, amounts equal to one half of 1 per cent. of their current teachers' salaries. This was justified on the ground that the great majority of teachers presently retiring on [illegible] established in the urban centres just named.

Now let me talk freely on a more general aspect of our task as edu- [illegible] We are faced with the [illegible] fourfold in character. First, we must win the war. If that is not [illegible]

Secondly, we must face our financial obligations created by the [illegible] sober and careful thinking.

Thirdly, we must maintain, at [illegible] give [illegible]

And fourthly, we must see to it that our children are prepared to follow along that way of life intelligently and aggressively, when they grow up.

[illegible]

Let me illustrate. If we destroy the Nazi organization, and at the same time bury ourselves under a mountain of debt from which we cannot recover and be economically [illegible] appear that we have.

CRITICAL OPERATION

Let us make no mistake about it. The [illegible] clash of human and [illegible] forces is a most critical operation upon the body of our civilization. Unfortunately there are rival doctors in dispute as to the diagnosis and operative treatment. On one point we are agreed. In the opinion of 100,000,000 law-abiding citizens on this continent Herr Hitler's diagnosis is most fantastic and unsatisfactory, his totalitarian remedies are barbaric and horrible, and his bill much higher than self-respecting men [illegible]

We are resolved to put him out of the way and to adopt a [illegible] technique.

We must inspire our people and especially the rising generation with hope, with a brighter outlook, and with a spiritual resistance against these materialistic agencies of paganism.

The decision is for us to make.

We can, if we choose, allow the victorious might of democracy to put aside its armour, and wallow in a condition of irresponsibility, followed by a slough of dreadful depression which will produce a generation of young rebels, who will believe in nothing and who will have confidence in nobody, or on the other hand we can inculcate those new and vigorous ideals into every school and into every community until we have a strong, virile manhood and womanhood that will demand economic security and democratic freedom, as the cultural heritage of modern progress.

I should like you to know that we expect to spend more money not less on the education and training of the people of our province. That is one reason why we did not let the Dominion-Provincial Conference in January, 1941, deliver over to Ottawa the most lucrative and promising sources of provincial revenue.

Well, I have [illegible] I had to say. May I summarize [illegible]

HEALING FORCES

Your job and mine is to keep the [illegible] forces in that body by planting essential truths and by kindling bright aspirations in the [illegible] a young generation that will make [illegible] clear, fearless thinking among our own generation without the terrorism of economic bondage.

I trust that your convention this year will be the greatest you have ever had. I am sure it will be if every one of the members catches the challenge of the problems before us.

Here 49 Years

ARTHUR WILLIAM ORMSBY, 72, of 10148 115 street, who Wednesday was celebrating his 49th year as a resident of Edmonton. Mr. Ormsby is an agent with the Royal Trust Company.

PIONEER MARKS 49TH YEAR AS CITIZEN HERE

Arthur William Ormsby, 72, of 10148 115 street, was celebrating his 49th year as a resident of Edmonton Wednesday.

When he arrived here in 1892, Edmonton's population was approximately 1,200 and the smallest "change" in circulation in the city were 10-cent pieces.

His first work here was with K. A. McLeod, contractor, and with Alex Taylor, owner of the Edmonton district telephone system and manager of the Edmonton Electric Light and Power Co. At that time there were 1,200 lights and 15 telephones in the city.

Later, he became city commissioner while still with the electric light and telephone companies and remembers installing phones for the Roman Catholic mission offices of Father Lacombe and Father Leduc, two pioneer missionaries.

Still active in business circles, Mr. Ormsby is an agent with the Royal Trust Company. He is a life member of the Northern Alberta Pioneers' and Old-Timers' Association, and takes great pride in his widely-known flower gardens.

Technical Default Made By Province On Treasury Bill

Technical default was made by the province on Tuesday on a treasury bill for $1,946,000 held by the Dominion government. Negotiations have been underway between the two governments for a renewal and the province [illegible] will be granted. Word on this point has not yet come through, so, as the province did not meet the bill, it is in default.

A further bill of $2,446,000 falls due on June 1.

The province has notified the Dominion of its inability to meet these bills this year, owing to taking over the Dominion's share of unemployment relief and other obligations. The Dominion has asked for statements on the province's financial position. Every expectation is held out by the province that the two bills will be renewed.

INDUSTRIAL SET-UP TOLD TO TEACHERS

govern keep step with the ability of man to produce goods, the industrial and social problems of the world will be solved, and the resultant world peace will put us on the way to a greater culture.

Dr. Rugg brought forth roars of laughter when he remarked that the so-called "rugged individualism" of the people of North America very often was more "ragged" than "rugged."

Dr. Rugg outlined some of the educational problems brought about through the present set-up of the system of living and working on this continent.

ABLE TO GOVERN

The only way to put man in a position to govern and conduct his social life in the manner fitting the requirements of the age, he declared, is to give our educational system a sharp impetus, keeping it also in line with the industrial mode of life in our time. It is in the school that the child learns to govern himself. In the school, however, he must also learn to govern his world, the speaker said.

Democracy Described As Greatest Asset

Canada and United States are building an unique kind of democracy in North America, Dr. Harold Rugg of the Teachers' College, Columbia University, told nearly 1,000 teachers convening Tuesday afternoon in the Macdonald hotel in connection with the annual convention of the Alberta Teachers' Association.

Our democracy, Dr. Rugg said, is our greatest possession—it respects the dignity of each personality, values human life, and seeks a guarantee of justice for all. Our people today stand on the verge of a great culture, he declared, adding however, that our way of life is in great danger. He described the dangers of the dictators and the growing doubts in the democratic system evidenced through certain factors of the populations of the two countries.

Not until the economic problems of our time have been solved will we enjoy world peace, the speaker said. After this war, the workers of the world face the greatest depression ever faced before, he said. No peace will be enjoyed, he continued, until the vast differences in present standards of living in different countries are overcome together with differences in military and economic power. He said people must be educated to understand one another.

Dr. Rugg brought world problems home to his listeners when he referred to the place of education in the present setup. He reviewed the history of the organization of the present educational system and stated that the time has come to revamp the educational structure, created at a time when speed was essential.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. M. E. Lazerte, past president of the A.T.A.

Salvage Drive To Open May 1 As City Makes Campaign Plans

Edmonton's National Salvage campaign will get underway May 1, it was decided by the committee in charge of operations here under the chairmanship of A. W. Douglas, manager, Miner Rubber Co. Ltd. A special meeting will be held in the council chamber, Civic block, on Monday at which organization plans will be completed.

Invitations are being sent out to community league officers, service clubs, veterans' and other organizations to have delegates at this meeting, and a general invitation is being issued to any person interested in assisting in the drive to attend.

A special committee is now conferring with salvage dealers in the city to draft a list of articles which can be salvaged most readily. The campaign will open with a drive for the collection of the articles specified by this committee. Announcement of the list of articles will be be made within a few days.

At Tuesday's meeting organization plans in other western cities were discussed, and a plan formulated along the lines adopted in Winnipeg will likely be used here.

It was reported to the meeting that several of the city's community leagues had established organizations for salvage work and were now awaiting instructions to start the salvage drive in their territory.

Man Suffering Fierce Thirst Steals A Keg

Some chap with a fierce thirst and practically no scruples stole an eight-gallon keg one-quarter full of beer from the truck of James McSweeney, Flynn's Truck Service, Colinton, as the truck stood parked in front of the Alberta government liquor vender's store, Tuesday afternoon.

Police are investigating but it's hard to get a bet on there being any of the dark brown fluid left as and when the keg is recovered.

Have You Seen

City police have been asked by William Sanders of Onoway to search for his daughter, who has been missing from her home since last Thursday. The girl is 15 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, and is slim. She has dark brown hair and blue eyes, and was wearing gray riding breeches and a brown sweater when she left home.

ROAD REPORT

Wednesday's A.M.A. report: From one to three inches of snow. All dirt roads greasy, and main roads fair to good. Peace River, no crossing at Smith, road mostly okay but muddy in places.

Convention Highlights

Two more days to go! Barely commenced Tuesday afternoon, the 24th annual convention of the Alberta Teachers' Association in the Macdonald hotel this week will be winding up for another year Thursday.

The official opening ceremonies constituted one bang-up afternoon, however. Take f'r instance when Mayor Fry in his address said: "At convention time, delegates usually look forward to the mayor's telling them that any overstepping of the bounds of prudence on their parts will be overlooked." The delegates settled back expectantly. Then the mayor continued: "I am not going to make any such promise at this convention, because I think it would be unnecessary."

There were two young male teachers sitting in front of the press desk who looked rather disappointed at this part of His Worship's address.

As a matter of fact there are a large number of young delegates to ths convention. The age of "aged" teachers must be over. Hon. Solon Low, provincial treasurer, remarked on this. "I can see no bald head in this gathering," Mr. Low pointed out, "and very few gray ones." President Ray Shaul stroked a smooth head.

The convention's guest speaker, Dr. Harold Rugg, made a bright remark when he said: "Individually we are of two kinds: rugged and ragged."

James A. Smith of Paradise Valley was discovered in one corner of the convention room Wednesday gingerly feeling his right hand. Mr. Smith had been using that extremity in shaking hands with about 300 delegates who congratulated him on his being elected president of the A.T.A. for the coming year.

Despite his many years of service on the A.T.A. executive Mr. Smith is one of the youngest presidents to hold office. He is 29, a former vice-president, and principal of a [illegible]

Women's Groups Request Provisions For Men On Leave

Delegation of members of women's war service groups and auxiliaries to the fighting forces met Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, on Tuesday in the Macdonald hotel and petitioned for cheaper transportation rates for soldiers, sailors and airmen in order to permit them to visit their homes when on leave.

Mr. MacKinnon stated that he was in deep sympathy with the proposal and would take up the question with the government on his return to Ottawa. He quite realized the difficulty the men have in reaching their homes, especially those stationed long distances away and sailors who must come from the [illegible]

The minister asked the delegates to write him a special letter which would be from all the auxiliaries and which he would submit in his presentation to the government.

ONE FOR THE MONEY

By Louise Holmes

"So you fell in love with him." Susie said. Julie was quick to deny that. "No—no. I didn't. I liked him—I still like him. That's why I'm so dreadfully upset over this thing in the paper."

When a purse-snatcher attempts to victimize JULIE PATTON blonde manicurist, handsome JOHNNY TOWNE slugs the fellow and suggests that Julie and he have something to eat. Julie, who has decided that she wants luxury and money far more than she wants love, falls in love with Johnny. She is startled to discover he is a chauffeur when Millionaire KENNEDY WORTHINGTON SPATE, III, fiftyish and unattractive, has his mother invite Julie to be a week-end guest and sends Johnny with the limousine to bring her to their estate. Johnny tells Julie that the man he knocked cold is in a critical condition at the hospital and police are searching for the assailant. Julie fears her name will be involved and she will lose her one opportunity to marry into a rich family. Julie spends an evening with the Spates which is very dull—until Johnny enters to speak to Mrs. Spate. Johnny reports a new tire will be necessary, and after he leaves the house becomes dull again. Julie flatters Spate into a near-proposal. The next morning Julie's world goes flat when entering the car to go to church she says, "Good morning, Johnny," and Johnny formally touches his cap and says, "Good morning, Miss Patton." Later Kennedy suggests they go for a swim and Mrs. Spate insists that Johnny go, to guard them. In bathing trunks Kennedy suffers in comparison with Johnny who looks like a Greek god. Kennedy suggests that Julie and Johnnie swim while he suns himself and the young couple frolic in the water. After Sunday dinner, Kennedy and Julie go for a walk on the estate. Julie catches her breath when she sees a black car with printed letters on the door because she thinks it is the police looking for Johnny. She is relieved to discover it is the caterer's truck. That evening the beautiful blonde girl is a tremendous success at the Spates' dinner party where most of the guests are middle-aged or older. However, thoughts of Johnny continue to flow through Julie's mind. Julie is terrified to hear during a newscast that the purse-snatcher whom Johnny slugged died and police are looking for his assailant. Returning to the city the next morning, Spate tells Julie that Johnny is going to the district attorney and admit he knocked down the purse-snatcher. Julie fears she will be involved in the scandal. She confidentially reveals to Susie while they're lunching that she is the girl that Johnny rescued from the purse-snatcher.

CHAPTER TWENTY

SUSIE sat back, staring owlishly at her friend. "That was the adventure you wanted to tell me about," she said slowly.

Julie nodded. "It happened just the way Johnny told the district attorney. Only—only I didn't run away. I got in his car, we went to a sweet shop, we talked for an hour and he took me home."

WISE EYES

Susie watched her with wise, comprehending eyes. "And you didn't know who he was?"

"No," miserably.

"He pretended to be a big shot?"

"No, he didn't pretend anything. He was friendly and lots of fun. It was my own fault that I made a mistake."

"Why was it a mistake?" Susie demanded with a touch of defiance. "Chauffeuring is a good honest way to make a living. It's just as good as manicuring."

Julie looked down at her twisting hands, saying nothing.

"So you fell in love with him." Susie said.

Julie was quick to deny that. "No—no. I didn't. I liked him—I still like him. That's why I'm so dreadfully upset over this thing in the paper."

Susie again read the article. "He said the woman was dark, shabbily dressed, 35 or 40—that's funny."

"He's trying to keep me out of it. Don't you see, Susie?"

"Hm-m—Im beginning to see. Say, this is better than the story in the paper. You and this Johnny Towne meet and fall in love. He's dressed nice and acts nice and you think he belongs to the upper crust. When did you find out he was Mr. Spate's chauffeur?"

"When he came to drive me to Long Island." Julie spoke very low. That moment still reverberated in her consciousness like the echo of an exploding bomb.

QUIVERING NERVES

"Oh, this is good," Susie giggled. "Out you walk, all dressed up like a plush horse, and there stands your fancy boy friend in a uniform. Gee, Julie—"

Julie had begun to regret her impulse to confide in Susie. The girl's realistic dramatization of foregoing events was anything but soothing to her quivering nerves.

"It may seem funny to you, Susie," she said coldly. "To me it is very real and—and tragic."

Susie was instantly contrite. "Guess I read too much junk," she confessed. "Always imagining things. I'm sorry, Julie. Please go on."

Julie's feathers were still ruffled. "I don't need to go on," she said. "The rest is there in the paper."

Susie did not quite get it. "Of course it's too bad the man died but, after all, it was only an accident. They can't pin a thing on Johnny Towne when you show up and substantiate his story." She quoted from the paper, her finger tracing the words. "What does Mr. Spate think of all this?"

"He only knows what is in the paper."

Susie's honest eyes opened wide. "Do you mean you didn't tell him?"

"That's what I mean." Julie's white teeth worried her lower lip. Why hadn't she told Kennedy—why?

"You—you just sat still and let this Johnny person take the rap?" Susie's choice of words was colorful and most expressive.

"Yes." Rising, Julie went to the window. She spoke in a smothered tone. "Oh, Susie, can't you see my position? Ever since my father lost his money I've determined to have it again. I've fitted myself for a life of luxury. It isn't only that I want all the things that go with wealth, I need them. I can't live without them.

REALLY INTERESTED

"Now my chance has come, Susie. I belong to life as they live it at Spate Villa. I was born to it. Kennedy Spate is interested, really interested. He will ask me to marry him—"

"Well—all right," Susie said dubiously. "But I still can't see what that has to do with his chauffeur and the purse snatcher."

"Can't you see, Susie?"

"No, I can't." Susie dunked a doughnut thoughtfully. "Mr. Spate likes his chauffeur, doesn't he? He's probably pulling strings to help him right now."

"Yes, he is."

"Then wouldn't he be grateful if you stepped up and substantiated his story?" Again she quoted the news writer.

"He'd be grateful for Johnny's sake." Julie said no more and her friend continued her absentminded dunking.

After a little silence she said. "I don't get you, Julie. There are some things you've got to do—honest, helpful things."

Julie whirled about. "I hate being dishonest," she said furiously. "I like to be helpful—but this is asking too much. If I go to the district attorney my entire future will be smashed."

Toward that leisurely future Julie had toiled. She had schooled her emotions until they were a mass of controlled inhibitions.

She was mentally incapable of letting go her hold on security and ease. The want of them was ingrained. Johnny's claim was strong, the call of love consuming, but she was still chained by unswerving purpose. Impulse bade her rush to Johnny, years of emotional discipline held her back.

"What about Johnny Towne's entire future?" Susie asked quietly.

"I don't know," Julie groaned. "It's his future. I won't worry about it—I won't."

TROUBLED EYES

Susie brushed sandwich crumbs from her lap and crushed her paper napkin into a tight ball, rolling it between her palms. Her troubled eyes looked into space.

She said, "I might go to the police. I could say I was the woman. I'm dark and not very well dressed—Johnny might have been mistaken in my age—it was dark—"

Julie was at her side, she was crying. "Oh, don't, Susie! You make me so ashamed. It wouldn't do any good, you'd be arrested for something or other, I think they call it perjury. Pete would never forgive you."

"Pete would understand." Susie said simply. "Pete loves me. He'd stick with me through anything." She sighed. "But I couldn't get away with it. I'm not smart enough."

Julie stumbled to the cooler and drank a glass of ice water. She wiped away her tears and powdered her nose. Susie stood soberly at her elbow.

"You love Johnny Towne, don't you, Julie?" she asked at last.

"I suppose so," bitterly. "If love is a crazy sensation that befuddles your brain and turns every value topsy-turvy, I suppose I love him. But that doesn't mean that I want him," she went on with more spirit. "I would be utterly miserable with him and I'd make him utterly miserable." She set her chin. "I know what I want and I'm going to have it. I won't be stopped by a purse snatcher."

TOO BAD

A soda fountain boy came for the trays. He made a few wise cracks concerning Julie's untouched food and Susie answered him in kind. Reaching for the trays, he leaned over the newspaper, making a quick survey of the headlines.

"Too darn bad about Johnny Towne," he declared. "Used to see him when old lady Spate lived here. Swell fella. Maybe this'll teach him to leave the dames alone. We all learn that lesson sooner or later, usually later." He departed, grinning at Susie.

"Smart guy," she muttered dourly.

The girls returned to their tables and the afternoon was a nightmare for Julie. Automatically she performed her duties while love and selfish ambition waged a bitter war in her heart. Ambition finally won the battle, that is, a truce was signed conditionally.

She said to herself, "I am only indirectly to blame. Johnny would have rushed to the aid of any girl. He doesn't want me involved or he would have given my name to the district attorney."

It was not sound logic and she soothed her self loathing with procrastination and a promise. "I can tell any time," she thought. "I can wait and see what happens. I'll go to the authorities if I must. Perhaps Johnny will be cleared without my help."

Deciding upon this course, she moaned, "Oh, Johnny, don't hate me—I can't help it. Mud slinging—publicity—ugly insinuations—my reputation smirched for all time—"

In loving memory of Dan Powers, who passed away April 16, 1939.
"Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days.
Sincere and kind in heart and mind,
What a beautiful memory he left behind."
—Ever remembered by his loving Wife and Family.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Hughie Wynn, who passed away April 16, 1936.
"We have only your memory dear Hughie,
To remember our whole life through,
But the sweetness will linger forever,
As we treasure the image of you."
—Fondly remembered by Father, Mother, Brothers, Sisters and Granny.

WANTED FOR PURCHASE OF
THE GOVERNMENT
FOX FARM, AT OLIVER, ALBERTA.

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned, will be received up to and including Thursday, April 24th, 1941, for purchase of the Government Fox Farm at Oliver, Alberta, situated one-half mile North East of the Provincial Mental Hospital on the Edmonton-Fort Saskatchewan highway, and more particularly described as those portions of the North West quarter of Section Five (5) and the South West quarter of Section Eight (8) in Township Fifty-four (54), Range Twenty-three (23), West of the Fourth Meridian, shown as Parcels B and C on a plan of survey filed as No. 5392 in the office of the Director of Surveys, Department of Public Works, Edmonton, containing Thirteen and Eighty-seven Hundredths (13.87) acres more or less.

The property is enclosed by a board fence six (6) feet high; buildings on the property include one meat house; one pelting shed about Two Hundred and Forty (240) feet long; fifty (50) fox pens and runs made of wood and wire netting; nine (9) fox pens made of steel and wire netting; Sixty (60) mink breeding pens; Two Hundred and Ninety (290) pelting pens; One neutral pen; One beaver pen; well and pump and lookout tower.

Copies of the said plan of the property may be examined at the office of the Superintendent of Buildings, Department of Public Works, Parliament Buildings, Edmonton, between the hours of 9:00 to 12:00 a.m. and 2:00 to 5:00 p.m.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

W. A. FALLOW,
Minister of Public Works.

Edmonton, Alberta,
April 5th, 1941.

don teacher, speaking on democracy in the schools. Mr. Kunelius described a project he undertook in the Willingdon school when he organized the pupils into a group as similar as possible to the organization of the federal government.

SAVE FOR FUTURE

Business during the continuation of the annual general meeting included an address by R. J. Gaunt, who in connection with pensions advised teachers to save on a solid financial basis for the future. Teachers, he said, will have to build up a retirement fund with a great deal of self-sacrifice on their part.

Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer and chairman of the board of administration of the teachers' retirement fund, stated that the main problem of his group is to impress on individual school boards their employer-responsibility.

A banquet for graduates of the Normal Practice school was held in the Shasta cafe at noon. Luncheon meeting for graduates of the School of Education was held in the King Edward hotel, when a new executive for this graduates' association was elected.

RED COCKER IS ADJUDGED BEST "DOG IN SHOW"

The international championship of Canada and the United States went to a little red cocker spaniel, Live Oak Stand Storm, when he was adjudged "best in show" at the close of the Junior Hospital League's eighth annual dog show, Tuesday night, in the Memorial Hall.

Already holder of the American championship, the spaniel was awarded the crown of best in show by Gerald L. Stock, Vancouver judge. This made his third consecutive award of this title, having won the same rank at the Vancouver and Winnipeg shows, giving him the Canadian and with it the international crown.

Kennel club rules provide that, to win a championship, a dog must be judged best in three shows, under three different judges. At Vancouver the champion was judged by George Kynoch of Winnipeg and at Winnipeg by William P. Penn.

International Champion Live Oak Stand Storm is owned by Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Farrington of Berkeley, California, and was handled in Edmonton and Winnipeg by Mr. Kynoch.

Bred by Emma G. Piper of Santa Cruz, Cal., his sire was Champion Sandspring Stormalong and his dam Senor Dodo Sweet Susan.

Reserve winner to the best in show was Chief Fee Tee of Orchid, a Pekingese exhibited by Mrs. A. R. Caruso of Winnipeg.

One of the most successful shows staged by the Junior Hospital League in aid of its charitable works, including supplying a school teacher at the children's special ward of the University hospital and relief for children in bombed areas of Britain, the show closed Tuesday night at the end of two days of judging.

Outstanding dogs were brought from all parts of Canada and the United States and the judge expressed pleasure at the high quality of all the dogs exhibited.

Wind, Snowfall Change Weather

Raw winds and light snow flurries blew into Edmonton's balmy spring on Tuesday and sent temperatures downward from a 55 above reading at 1:30 p.m. to a 33 above reading at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday. With a precipitation of .10 inches and barometric pressure at 27.66 increasing, the forecast Wednesday was "continued cold."

Wind and overcast skies were prominent in the near north with ceiling and visibility generally good and average temperatures around 30 above.
